BUILDING PERMIT TOTAL IS NOW $8,000,000

Realty Board Increases Membership from 11 to 117 in Two Years

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Every Citizen Should Take Personal Interest In Election of C. of C. Directors

THE Glendale Chamber of Commerce will hold an election on November 27 for the purpose of choosing six new members to its board of directors.

At that time the term of office of eight members expires.

The board consists of 14 members. Only one member of the eight that are retiring is eligible to enter the race for re-election. The others are barred by a ruling made last March whereby the continuous time for holding office was limited to two years.

WHILE only six members are to be elected as directors two additional ones will be appointed by the new board after the election.

This will mean that a controlling vote of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce is to be elected on November 29th.

At the present time the membership of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce is between 950 and 1000 in good standing. While the actual voting for the new directors will be confined to those holding membership, the entire citizenship of Glendale should be intensely interested in the election and take part in the choosing of the best men for the vacancies.

A Chamber of Commerce, while formed as a private institution, is as nearly a public organization as any of our executive bodies.

It should be a clearing house for all civic problems. If all civic questions were first submitted to the Chamber of Commerce and after investigation the proposition submitted to the people for consideration with the Chamber's recommendation, fewer bond issues would be voted on and those that were would stand a better chance for a vote of approval.

IN fact, we believe a Chamber of Commerce should be the organization to which our city executives should look to for advise as to what are the wishes of the people. The executives of the Chamber should keep in close touch with the pulse of the people at all times, so as to be able to advise in an intelligent way. With the confidence of the people it would be able to be of immense aid to the administration of the affairs of the city.

LAST February in this column appeared an article under the heading "Is Glendale Over-Organized' So Far as Clubs Are Concerned?" In this editorial, among some other suggestions we recommended that it might be well for the welfare organizations in Glendale to be turned into branches of the Chamber of Commerce. Time has not demonstrated that this plan would fail. We believe it would work to better advantage now than it would have done ten months ago.

Most every citizen recognizes the absolute necessity for a Chamber of Commerce if our city is to function properly and each should assume his share of the responsibility in helping it to properly represent a majority of the people.

NEWCOMERS FROM JERSEY BECOME MAN AND WIFE

Marjorie Heslip and Joseph Quigley, who since their recent arrival from Patterson, N. J., have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Magill of 366 West Myrtle street, were married at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, October 22, 1923, at the Holy Family Catholic church. They were attended by Mrs. Jesse Nielsen of Highland Park and Alfred Sheen, Jr., also of Patterson, N. J. After the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Magill of 500 West Patterson avenue, where a wedding dinner was served. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Magill, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Magill, Alfred Sheen, Sr., Alfred Sheen, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. West, formerly of Patterson, N. J., Mrs. Grace Timmons, H. G. Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nielsen, W. J. Fleener, Helen and Junior West. Mr. and Mrs. Quigley will make their home in Glendale.

EDUCATION BOARD SELLS BUILDINGS

Minor matters were discussed last night by the grammar school board of education.

Bids were opened for the sale of buildings to be moved from school property. A house and garage at 417 Milford street was sold to George Vickery for $1,135.22 and a store, garage and bungalow at 506 South Pacific avenue were sold to Mrs. Grace Horton for $570.

A request to be allowed to use 150 square feet of the school site in Sparr Heights for a bowling green until it shall be needed for school purposes was made by A. E. Baron and E. Taylor. It was laid over until the next meeting.

The board was represented at the meeting by J. D. Hibben of 123 East Laurel, Mrs. Eva C. Barton of 318 East Mountain street and Judge Harry Chase of 103A North Brand boulevard. The session was attended also by R. D. White and David Black, superintendent and business manager for the school system.

TELEPHONE, TELEGRAPH SERVICE STIRS C. OF C.

Telephone and telegraph service was discussed last night by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

A communication was read by Secretary E. F. Sanders from Attorney Albert D. Pearce of 119 West Lexington drive, chairman of the utilities committee, suggesting that specific charges of negligence in the delivery of telegrams and night letters should be placed in writing and turned over to him. He intimated that he desired to use them as the basis for a case to be presented to the railroad commission in an action looking toward the securing of an independent telegraph office in Glendale.

W. E. Hewitt of 319 East Randolph street expressed his disapproval at the "stinginess" of the telephone company in refusing to distribute any more of the large directories.

JUNIOR CLASS DIVISIONS ARE CONSOLIDATED

The junior class consolidated its two divisions yesterday at Glendale Union High school. Officers are: Don McMillan, president; Miss Marion Morrison, vice president; Miss Velma Pierce, treasurer; Miss Gertrude Gilman, secretary.

EMIGRATION TO UNITED STATES ALARMS NORWAY

[By Associated Press]

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 24.— A series of conferences of a semi-official nature are shortly to take place under the aegis of the Norwegian Home Office to consider the best means of stopping the constant exodus of Norwegian subjects to America.

During the last twelve months the number of emigrants from the country has reached an alarming figure, so much so that the military authorities in some districts cannot obtain the necessary quotas of men for the yearly conscriptive training.

One suggestion being put forward is that the sparsely populated northern provinces of Norway should be colonized, the colonists to be encouraged by state aid to cultivate the land, form communities and otherwise utilize the vast areas that are as yet entirely wild.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS ARRANGE FOR PUBLICITY

Pamphlet Distribution and Newspaper Ads Talked About

The collection of a fund of at least $25,000 to advertise Glendale in the near future was suggested last night by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Although this suggestion was received with favor, no definite action was taken towards the putting on of the necessary campaign.

The desirability of employing a membership secretary, a man who might also be qualified as a publicity director, was discussed and was referred to a committee for further consideration.

An offer to distribute 2000 of the pamphlets advertising Glendale was accepted from T. C. Peck, general passenger agent for the Union Pacific.

"We will always welcome an opportunity to co-operate in the matter of publicity, and in other ways," he wrote. "If you will send us 2000 copies of your booklet, we will handle them from here without charge and distribute them throughout all of the agencies of the Union Pacific system in the east and Canada and feel sure that this will be the means of doing a great deal of good for Glendale."

"Booster ads" in the Los Angeles newspapers should be increased from one-half to full page displays in the opinion of Mr. Twining, chairman of the advertising committee He called attention to the fact that the local population is largely made up of the overflow from Los Angeles.

An invitation was received to place an exhibit boosting Glendale at a total cost of $2000 in the California Traveling Exposition. This will consist of a special train containing spaces for forty-two exhibits. It will leave San Francisco November 10 and will be gone thirtyfive days, stopping at 100 of the principal cities to and from New York City. H. G. Davidson, assistant director of the exposition, stated that it had been conservatively estimated that half a million people would pass through the train.

The general attitude by the directors towards Glendale's participation in this exposition was favorable. L. H. Wilson of 1034 South San Fernando road offered to give $150 toward the expense and Mr. Twining offered to give $50. Both expressed the opinion that the necessary expenses could be raised among the local merchants and realtors in about twenty-four hours.

Owing to the lack of capital and the necessity of creating a general advertising fund the project was vetoed so far as Glendale is concerned.

Attorney and Mrs. Ray L.Morrow of 328 Patterson avenue spent several days at Ventura recently, where they had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Vickery, who were returning to their home in the north. The Morrows accompanied them as far as Santa Barbara.

WIDENING OF SAN FERNANDO ROAD A PROBLEM

The Meeting Last Night Favored Mean Width of 70 Feet

A meeting of committees appointed to arrange for a conference of San Fernando road property owners with the county supervisors and planning commission was held Tuesday evening at Magnolia school with about eighteen committeemen actively interested, present. Mrs. M. P. Moberly, chairman of the promotion committee, presided, and a date was fixed for the proposed conference which will be held in Los Angeles in the office of Hugh Pomeroy, head of the county planning commission, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Present at that conference besides San Fernando road property owners will be Supervisor Wright of this dictrict and other members of the board of supervisors, members of the county planning commission, Mayor Robinson and other members of the Glendale city council, members of the Glendale city planning committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce.

The need to widen San Fernando road was conceded by all present, and the desire of the county planning commission to secure a uniform width of 70 feet from Saugus to the terminus in Los Angeles city was explained. At present the roadway varies from 50 to 80 feet. Most of the way within Glendale it has a width of 60 feet and the main theme of the Thursday morning conference will be how the additional ten feet can be added with the least damage and distress to property owners.

Within the county the supervisors have control and can widen the road if they see fit, but within the cities through which it passes the concurrence of property owners and city authorities must be secured, for this reason committees have been formed and meetings held.

CHILDREN NEED GOOD PICTURES IN HOME

Wonderful Address by Miss Barry of Tujunga

A wonderful address on art education in the home and school was made by Miss Harriet Barry of Tujunga at the meeting of the fine arts section of the Tuesday Afternoon club held in one of the upper reception rooms of the club house Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Roy Ballagh, curator, presiding. The speaker showed how important it is that mothers should wake up to the fact that children need good pictures to develop artistic taste and appreciation. They should be considered as necessary a part of the furnishings of a home as chairs or rugs. She also urged the purchase of good pictures for school rooms by P.-T. A. organizations as a part of the art education of children. "Foreigners," she said, "criticise Americans for their lack of knowledge and appreciation of art, but that is due to the fact that the American has been wrestling with the elements in the development of a new country. Now he is ready for education along art lines."

ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS MEETING AT CHATSWORTH

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce was represented by L. T. Rowley of 334 Vine street last night in Chatsworth at a meeting of the San Fernando Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce.

The next meeting of this organization will be held November 20 in Glendale. Plans for the banquet and entertainment will be made at the next meeting of the board of directors, according to an announcement this morning by Secretary E. F. Sanders.

Twelve other chambers of commerce are represented: Burbank, Lankershim, Van Nuys, Zelza, Mission Acres, Reseda, Chatsworth, Owensmouth, Pacoima, San Fernando, Tujunga and Montrose.

MOTOR COP BAUGH HURT CHASING SPEEDER

Collides With Auto; Leg Broken, Hand and Foot Hurt

A collision this morning resulted in the injury of Motorcycle Officer Ralph Baugh of 461 West Dryden street, who is now a patient at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

While Officer Baugh was pursuing a speeder south on Brand boulevard, a machine driven by S. C. Forney of 3385 LaClede avenue got into his day at the Maple street crossing and he was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision. He was hurled from his motorcycle which was completely wrecked. His left leg was fractured above the knee, his left foot was badly bruised, his right hand was badly cut and he received numerous cuts and bruises about the face.

For failure to heed the siren Mr. Forney was arrested. It was found that he had been without a proper driver's license. He was released upon $50 bail.

"I was coming north on Brand boulevard, "asserted Mr. Forney. "I turned to the left at Maple street. After I crossed the track, the officer coming south on a motorcycle hit my front wheel."

The automobile had all spokes broken in its right front weel. Its right front fender was bent and its right headlight broken.

The speeder escaped.

GLENDALE WILL HAVE FLOAT THIS YEAR

L. W. Chobe, Successful Designer of Past Years, in Charge

Glendale will participate in the Tournament of Roses.

The chamber of commerce directors last night requested . W. Chobe of 2301 Sierra avenue to proceed with the preliminary plans for the preparation of an attractive float to represent this community in Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Mr. Chobe stated that he was interested in the entering of a float from a citizen's standpoint. He remarked that he could not guarantee that the entry would win another first prize but assured those present that they would not need be ashamed of the float.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB DISCUSSES SCOUTS

Forty or more interested members of the Men's club of the First Congregational church sat down to a good dinner served Tuesday evening in the banquet hall of the church by members of the Women's Auxiliary. It was followed by a business session at which one of the matters discussed was boy scout leaders, especially for Troop No. 2, which has been meeting at the church for several years. Ben Robison, who has been its leader for some time, has been obliged to relinquish it for other scout work.

The organization of a troop of Boy Rangers of America was also discussed. This is for boys younger than scouts and is preliminary to scouting.

The address of the evening was made by E. B. Clark of 1000 South Adams street, this city, who worked on the Panama Canal for four years. His talk proved exceedingly interesting and was illustrated by lantern slides made from his own photographs. Community singing, led by J. Arthur Myers, completed the program. H. C. Wilcox is president of the organization.

HIGH SCHOOL NOW HAS 700 LOCKERS, MORE NEEDED

About 300 additional lockers were turned over to students yesterday at Glendale Union High school. This brings the total number in use, exclusively of those in the gymnasiums, to about 700. Owing to the uncertainty as to whether or not the new plant would be used this term, these could not be delivered sooner, Vice Principal A. L. Ferguson stated this morning that it is still necessary for two or three students to use the same locker.

ALL OF 763 TICKETS MUST BE SOLD, SAYS TWINING

The necessity of every one of the 763 tickets to the benefit for the survivors of the fire victims being sold was emphasized by W. L. Twining of 227-A South Brand boulevard last night to the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"This is something that has got to go over," he exclaimed. "There are men in this community who ought to take at least a hundred tickets."

The organization of the relief fund committee was explained by A. T. Cowan of 139 South Brand boulevard. He stated that about $2000 has been collected toward the relief fund.

TICKETS FOR CIVIC BENEFIT NOW ON SALE

Price Is $5 and They Can Be Had at Various Places

Tickets for the monster benefit to aid the families of the fire victims are now on sale at the chamber of commerce, Tuesday Afternoon club, Glendale Press, Glendale News, Glendale Book Store and can be had from any member of the following committee: Chalmer Day, 521 East Elk avenue; Twining & Myers, 227-A South Brand; W. The tickets are $5 each and the array of talent is such as has seldom been gathered under one roof. The performance will be given on November 6 at 8:15 o'clock in the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium. The talent secured includes:

Wil Rogers, Milton Sfils, Lionel Belmore, Clara Kimball Young, Ruth Roland, Lucille Cavanaugh, Wanda Hawley, Jack Gardner and his wife, Louise Dresser, Herbert Rawlingson, Hedda Hopper, Lew Cody and Ernest Torrence, big man of the screen.

Many more are expected to be added to this list daily.

IS NOW GLENDALE LODGE NO. 544 F. & A. M.

It Was So Constituted Tuesday Night by the Grand Officers

Official constitution of Glendale lodge No. 544, F. & A. M., took place on Tuesday night at Masonic temple, Glendale, by Grand Master Chritz of Bakersfield and his corps of grand officers of the state of California, who also duly installed the officers. This lodge has formerly been known as Glendale lodge U. D., and recently was awarded its charter and was officially instituted.

The meeting Tuesday night was attended by members of Masonic lodges from all parts of Southern California, there being about 250 present in all. The officers who were officially installed were John S. Creeland, master; Charles J. Wolf, snior warden; Wallace I. Hodge, junior warden; George T. Harness, treasurer; Albion B. Woodside, secretary; Alfred R. Ireland, chaplain; Monte C. Brucker, senior deacon; Geo. W. Mishler, junior deacon; Paul E. Maxwell, marshal; R. C. Montanye, senior steward; Henry J. Mills, junior steward; Riley Lyons, tyler. Following the business meeting a banquet was served.

The stated meetings of Glendale lodge No. 544 will be held the first Wednesday of each month.

REALTY BOARD HAS VERY LIVELY SESSION

By-laws to Be Changed; Benefit Boosted; Music Club Urged

That the membership of the Glendale Realty Board has grown in two years from eleven to 117, the present figure, was the statement made at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board at luncheon at the Egyptian cafe at noon today by President Cameron Thom. This growth he very modestly acknowledged was due primarily to efficient leadership of the board.

That each realtor of Glendale must take out his own business bond before January 1, and that it will not be handled through the board or the state association was the statement made by Realtor J. D. Pearson.

"It was at first thought that the bond would have to be taken out through the board," said Mr. Pearson, "but it has been learned that this cannot be done. Each individual member must take out his own bond before applying for a renewal of his license on January 1st."

Mr. Pearson thought it would be a good plan for the secretary's office to send out to all the members of the board the names of the companies issuing bonds of this character.

The matter of amending the bylaws so as to provide for three vice-presidents, so that there was sure to be a presiding officer at each meeting, was brought up by Dr. Jessie A. Russell. The board decided to amend the bylaws in this way, and also to provide for the holding of the annual meeting of the organization the first Wednesday in November, rather than November 3, as previously.

At next week's meeting of the board these amendments to the bylaws will be considered and at the week following the annual meeting the election of officers will be held.

In the discussion of the change in the bylaws for the providing of more vice-presidents Secretary Hayward stated it would be a good plan to make honorory members of the governing commitee all past presidents. This was offered as an amendment to the motion of Dr. Russell.

At the beginning of the meeting President Thom spoke in the highest terms of the work of Peter Hanson in the 5-minute home town talk at the Sacramento convention.

"Pete is the very finest kind of a sport," said President Thom. "We believe he was entitled to first prize, but as Pasadena was awarded that we will settle back in second place. He did wonderful work and we are proud of him."

"Who would not do his best with such loyal support?" responded Peter. "There was the loyal Glendale band lined up in the first row every one giving me all the encouragement he or she could. We were all hoping and fighting and praying for Glendale."

W. L. Twining brought up the matter of the benefit for the families of the boys who were killed in the recent fire, this to be given on November 6 at the Tuesday Afternoon club house. He urged all of the members of the board to buy one or more tickets each, and he told of "Bill" Howe having taken 100 of the tickets, representing $500, and commended the proprietor of the Glendale Theater on his generosity and public spirit.

"Bill is always there in a pinch," said Mr. Twining.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones addressed the board on the operations of the Glendale Music club.

"Not every one in this city knows about this club and of what it is doing. It has 600 members and seven different departments. Its dues are $5 per year and its aim is to educate the people of Glendale along the line of better music."

Mrs. Jones stated that the oratorio, "Elijah," will be given by the club during the coming winter. John Smallman, one of the leading directors in the country, she said, has been engaged to direct this large chorus. The first rehearsal was held last night. She asked for the co-operation of the members of the Realty board in connection with the operations of the musical organization that she represented.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS JACKSON'S CONFESSION

Waring in Conspiracy, Too, and They Did Their Work Well

An "expose," which kept all present in a roar of laughter, was a feature of the luncheon this noon in Jensen's Egyptian Village cafe of the Glendale Exchange club.

Capt. D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard and W. C. Waring of 719 South Maryland avenue made a full "confession" of their recent activities in Springfield, Massachusetts, at the annual convention of the National Exchange club. A conspiracy was admitted between them; one took the notes and did the work while the other did the handshaking.

"Every man, woman, child, dog and cat in Springfield knew that there is a Glendale, California!" exclaimed President Jackson. "We had the keys to the city and we had the police working with us. Our consciences were our guides."

The report of Mr. Waring commented: "We were impressed with the fact that the clubs were not primarily luncheon clubs but a great force for civic betterment, practical application of brotherly love and the cementing of life-long friendships. The usual wrangling of conventions was entirely absent and our slogan of 'Unity for Service' proved a true synonym."

Besides being official pianist of the convention, President Jackson was booked on the program for a snappy speech which was much applauded, on "Quality versus Quantity."

Postmaster Jackson admitted that he was on the job every minute boosting Glendale. His room at the Hotel Kimball soon became a rendevous for Exchangites and he left to rejoin his family in New York City under the impression that every one in New England had a key to it. In his behalf the seventh floor of the hotel was renamed "California."

A number of stunts were pulled off at the convention in which "D. Rip," as he is known to the local club, was a ringleader. Before long he had groups at the sessions singing "I Love You California." Another stunt was a solo from the hotel balcony.

"I couldn't get any sleep," he confessed. "I didn't get any sleep all the time I was in Springfield."

NEW STARS ADDED TO BRILLIANT LIST

Wm. A. Howe, manager of the Glendale Theater, is still adding to the list of motion picture stars who willingly agree to take part in the testimonial entertainment to be given Monday evening, November 6, in the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium. Here are those secured since our last report: Hedda Hopper, Lew Cody, Ernest Torrence and Herbert Rawlinson. These and all the others named will apepar on the auditorium stage as their real everyday selves.

LIQUOR AND NARCOTIC TRAFFIC BEYOND CONTROL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—Liquor and narcotic traffic into the United States across the Canadian and Mexican borders has got beyond control of federal customs and prohibition enforcement officers, according to a statement made today by Collector Millard T. Hartson, of Seattle, chairman of a confernce of customs collectors which has been in session here this week.

Millard declared that he would go before a congressional committee in December with statistics to prove his statement and a request for more men and higher salaries in the Pacific coast customs districts.

Among those attending the conference are Collectors Schwaebe, of Los Angeles; W. B. Hamilton, of San Francisco; E. C. McFarland, of Portland, Ore.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 24.—The United States liner Leviathan wirelessed the office of the line here today that she would be unable to reach Cherbourg until Saturday morning. She was quite safe, the message stated, and was proceeding toward the French coast at reduced speed, probably because of bad weather. The liner is expected to reach Southampton Saturday evening instead of Friday afternoon.

TUESDAY CLUB AT REGULAR MEET HEARS OF INDIANS

Attorney Ida Mae Adams Urges That Women Help Free Them

Preceding the regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club yesterday Gage Christopher led in a half hour of community singing. This was followed by a short business session, in charge of the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell. After the reading of the minutes Mrs. Campbell explained that during the year the chairmen of committees and curators of sections would be given an opportunity to tell of their work, and introduced Mrs. W. E. Evans, federation secretary. She told of having attended a council of federation secretaries of the first district.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of ways and means, announced that reservations would close on Saturday for the Hallowe'en dinner to be held by the club on October 30. After dinner there will be cards and dancing. Prizes will be awarded for every eight tables of cards. For the convenience of members having small children, Mrs. Campbell announced that the executive board will endeavor to secure a competent woman to take care of the little folks during the club sessions. At a meeting of the executive board held Tuesday morning the request for Section C of Arts and Crafts was granted. This section will probably meet the second and fourth Monday mornings. Mrs. Campbell urged the club members to register in order to vote for the sewer bonds.

To date the Tuesday Afternoon club has to its credit as having contributed to the fire victims' testimonial fund over $310.33. Of this amount $100 was given through the club by L. C. Brand. A beautiful oil painting, "The Wild Wood" was a gift to the club yesterday from the artist, Mrs. Bion S. Warner.

A motion carried that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. Robert J. Burdete, noted club woman whose son passed away last week, and who was to have been the speaker at yesterday's meeting. The club will have as speaker at the meeting next week Jasper Myer of the University of Psychological Research, who will talk on "Modern Tendencies of American Women."

Miss Ida Mae Adams, attorney and counselor at law, who represented the Indian Welfare league, gave a most enlightening talk on the American Indians and urged that they be given their enfranchisement. She said in part: "The Indian in America today numbers 336,000, less than half the population of the city of Los Angeles. In California alone at one time we had 170,000 Indians and today we have just a few more than 15,000. We like to boast that we do not have slaves. That is not true. The negro slave never was oppressed more than Indian wardship oppresses our American Indians. The Indian children are not allowed to enter our public schools, which privilege is given to the children of every other race and color. The Indian schools do not train them for American citizenship but trains them to be Indians. Because we owe the Indians a debt we do not give them the same justice we do to other races.

"The only public institution in your own country in which the Indian has a right is the county jail. The sick Indian cannot go to the county hospital. The poor Indian cannot go to the county poor farm. But, by breaking the smallest law, of which he perhaps knows nothing, he is put in the county jail. It is not that as a government or a people we are so cruel, but that we are so ignorant. We do not know the conditions of the Indians." Miss Adams also told of the hardships the Indians must meet and that hundreds are dying of starvation, and said: "You cannot relieve the conditions of the Indians merely by giving them money. They want to be free, to vote and to have a say in the government. They want you to open wide the American public schools and let into them their children, who are longing to be taught Americanism."

BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN SECURING REAL HOME SITE

Following the Business and Professional Women's club dinner held in the C. and S. cafeteria Tuesday evening an adjournment was taken to the offices of Dr. Laura Brown in the Security Bank building, where suggestions for securing a permanent club home and for a constructive program for the coming winter were received and discussed.

Announcement was made that the next cabinet meeting will be held Tuesday evening, November 6, and Miss Lillian Meddick agreed to remind members by telephoning them before the meeting.

The invitation of Dr. Elizabeth Early to hold the business session of the club at her home, 225 North Isabel was accepted. The meeting will be held November 13 at 7:30 and Dr. Early was asked to arrange for a brief program. In this connection members present agreed to broadcast the information about the meeting at Dr. Early's home by becoming responsible for calling up other members and advising them of the date, time and place.

The list of members was read and volunteers indicated the names they would undertake to see in regard to the meeting.

A committee of three composed of Miss Gibbs, Dr. Laura Brown and Dr. Elizabeth Early was appointed to negotiate in regard to a permanent home for the club with instructions to report at the meeting November 13.

Miss Jane Barrows, a newcomer in Glendale from Hutchinson, Kan., who has had experience in business women's clubs and in Y. M. C. A. work, was introduced and gave a practical talk about methods of promoting such organizations, difficulties to be overcome. Two other guests introduced were Miss Hogan, who is just entering the real estate field in Glendale, and Miss Ball, who has resided in Glendale for some time.

Mrs. Nanno Woods talked to members about the production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" to be put on by Community Players and exhibited an interesting miniature in pasteboard of the stage setting.

MAIDS, YOUNG MATRONS WILL MEET THURSDAY

The maids and young matrons section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the tea room of the club house with Mrs. C. G. Putnam presiding. There will be a group of musical numbers by Mme. Jadwisa Zebrowska, soprano, accompanied at the piano by her teacher, Mme. Felicia Romanowska. She will sing "Vissi d'Arte" from "Tosca" (Puccini), and an aria from "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni.) There will be a talk on "The Principles of Interior Decoration" by Mrs. Henrietta Capp of Los Angeles. This will be an open meeting and all club members and friends are invited.

C. OF C. APPROVES EFFICIENCY MEASURES

Two ways of increasing the efficiency of the Chamber of Commerce were approved last night by its board of directors. One involved an expenditure of $32 for an illuminated sign to be hung in the entrance to the vestibule and the other concerned the keeping of the office open after November 1 on Saturday afternoons.

S. D. A. DELEGATES HOME FROM BIG CONVENTION

Report Marked Advance in Missionary Work and Offerings

The delegation of clergymen of the Pacific Union conference of Seventh-day Adventists which has its headquarters in Glendale, who attended the fall convention of world leaders of the denomination in Milwaukee, Wis., have returned home. President J. L. McElhany, who was the leader of the delegation, says the most progressive plans ever made for the advancement of the denomination were adopted at this meeting.

Appropriatoins amounting to $2,661,207.06, were made for carrying forward missionary operations abroad during the coming year.

Extra funds equal to 35 per cent of this amount will be added through the operation of what is known as the Harvest Ingathering campaign, which is an annual affair throughout the ranks of the denomination. The mission stations will be allowed to retain their funds secured through this campaign for local operation rather than turn it back to the foreign mission treasury, as was the policy in the past.

The money appropriated to Europe, which for many years was on a self-supporting basis, will be used to assist in the purchase of school buildings in that country, the enlargements of schools now in operation, the purchase of buildings for mission headquarters and for advancement of the church along evangelistic lines. Buildings in Europe are selling for a mere trifle, the delegates from there declared, and the denomination will take advantage of the opportunity to enlarge the scope of their endeavors.

Religious services in Europe are crowded with people who are searching for something that will lead them out of confusion, chaos and perplexity that are plainly written on all their faces, according to Rev. J. S. James of Takoma Park, who has just returned from a tour of the British Isles, Germany, France, Belgium and Scandinavia.

A ministerial association comprising a membership of 15,000 ordained and licensed ministers, Bible teachers, editors, presidents of colleges and academies and other gospel workers in the denominational ranks throughout the world is to be added to the world-wide work of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, according to plans adopted at the convention.

Rev. Mr. Daniels declared that something must be done to build up the ministry both among those already in it, and among the students. "We find our advance students leaning to medicine, teaching, and business, and must make strong, earnest and systematic efforts to turn more of them to the ministry."

The appointment of a committee of nine other leading ministers to give Mr. Daniells assistance was announced.

Rev. Mr. Daniells said the students are to be made acquainted with ministerial problems, church government and other things necessary to a successful ministry.

Foreign missionaries, practically all of whom are well known in Takoma Park, attended the convention from China, Japan, India, South America and the West Indies, and will take recruits back with them when they return. All branches of the church were considered during the convention, and steps taken to make further advancement both at home and abroad.

RELIEF COMMITTEE CALLED TO MEET

At a meeting of the members of the local relief committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, held at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternon with Mrs. F. S. Card, chairman, in charge, plans were made for a meeting of the committee on Friday, November 2, at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Cribbs, 327 Patterson avenue. The time will be spent in tying comforters. Many beautiful aprons for the committee's booth at the Society Circus were brought in yesterday.

GILLETT TENT, D. V., HAS ITS FOURTH ANNUAL INSPECTION

Fourth annual inspection of Mary Jane Gillett Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, was held Tuesday night in American Legion hall at 610 East Broadway. President Pearl Moore and her staff of officers exemplified the work in a very commendable manenr. Dept. Inspector Maud Graham of Oakland was profuse in her praise of the efficiency of the officers, especially of the books of the secretary, Esther Wilson; treasurer, Cora Jones; and press correspondent, Gertrude Griffin, and of the work of the color bearers, Amie Miller, Daphne Lyons, Evelyn Ashman and Leona Hibbert.

Other visitors present were Department President Permelia Daugherty of Los Angeles; department color bearer No. 4, Frankie Engemann, who is also president of Daylight Tent No. 29 of Los Angeles; Berttena Boyle, president of Jessie Benton Fremont Tent No. 4 of Los Angeles; Hattie Dunseith, past president of Clara Barton Tent No. 14 of Los Angeles; and Ada Fox, past president of Tent No. 6 of Oakland. A gift was presented to the inspector by President Moore.

Miss Sophia Benz of 409 South Glendale avenue was initiated into the tent with the impressive ceremonies of the order. Miss Benz is the daughter of the late Comrade Theodore Benz, who served in Company H, First Indiana Cavalry. This initiation brings the membership to the Tent to 89.

ASHCROFTS HAVE WONDER TRIP TO ALASKA AND EAST

Find Chicago Still and Lonsome; New York Dirty and Foreign

Norman Ashcroft and his wife, Dr. Libbie Ashcroft, returned Saturday from a tour of the east and middle west and are more loyal Glendalians, if possible, than when they went away. When asked for particulars she declared it was a journey to New York via Alaska, for that was their first objective and a delightful preliminary for the trans-continental journey. They crossed Canada, going eastward by the new Canadian National which has been laid 700 miles north of the Canadian Pacific, through picturesque scenery and wild flora and fauna. A brief stop was made in the Canadian National forest, Jasper Park. Fifty glacier points are in view from the hotel, one of which, the Edith Cavell glacier, they visited. The ice is 75 feet thick and the glacier is moving at the rate of 4 inches a year. Their next stop was in Winnipeg, which is an interesting city, and from there they went through to their old home town, Chicago. Four days were spent there and in commenting on the fact Dr. Libbie said: "It was enough, because Chicago is so dirty and noisy and not nearly so alert and bustling as Los Angeles. We saw fewer people on State street, the leading business thoroughfare, than you can see any day on Broadway, and less traffic. The significant thing to us was the number of horses still used for trucking.

"From Chicago we went to Toronto, a beautiful city where we had two interesting days, and from there went to Montreal via the St. Lawrence. We did not have time to go on to Quebec but found Montreal quaint enough and foreign enough, in its French population. Even the street car conductors do not speak English.

"From Montreal we went to Boston, visiting the historical places that everyone wants to see and on to Warren, Mass., the early home of Mr. Ashcroft, where an aunt and a cousin still live in the old house in which his mother grew up. Everything is unchanged and they are proud of the fact.

"From Warren we went to New York for ten days. It is the same big, dirty, busy place that it used to be and the conspicuous thing to us was the foreign element that seems to dominate it everywhere. It made us feel that we wanted to get home to America.

"From New York we went by steamer to New Orleans, a seven-day trip, with a delightful party of Glendalians and from there came on by train.

"We saw no place like Southern California and realized that even in California there is no place like Glendale. We wouldn't trade it for any place in the world.

"One of the souvenirs I brought from New York is a wonderful and highly bred silver Persian Tom called "It Too" from the Flag strain."

Just Chatter

By John J. Mulligan

There is something really remarkable in the power of music; in its ability to arouse and awaken, subdue and suppress the emotions of the human heart and soul. The songs our mothers used to sing! What tender memories they recall. The battle hymns and splendid marches! How they thrill us to the core. Down through history's pages man has long been held and swayed by the folk songs of his native land, lulled to sleep or roused to action. It took the fiery, turbulent soul-inspiring, death-defying Marseillaise to kindle and awaken the smouldering embers of discord and hate which slumbered in the breast of France. Emotionally at least, music is man's greatest gift.

Somewhere back of the line of France in a rest camp which wasn't a rest camp, I heard for the first time the beautiful melody, "Roses of Picardy." Mudcaked, weary, disgusted and blue, we had just returned from many weary days and nights of holocaust and damnation and our first night back we were entertained by a traveling theatrical group among whom was a charming woman, a well known opera singer from San Francisco. Radiantly beautiful like the blue bird songs of joy she sang, I shall never forget her standing there in the moonlight upon her improvised automobile stage, crowded in with a piano. She sang many songs, but "Roses of Picardy" for some psychological reason seemed more than any to fill the aching void in my lonely heart.

The war is over and the years have passed but I shall never forget her and often at twilight when memory holds sway, I think of her and wonder where she is and what she is doing, and how she is making out and if she's as happy as she deserves to be for the joy she brought to lonesome boys in a foreign land, mudcaked, weary, disgusted and blue. And whenever I hear my favorite played my mind goes back and my heart goes out to the little lady who sang "Roses of Picardy" somewhere in France.

DOG PROTECTORS WILL ORGANIZE HUMANE SOCIETY

An interesting business session and social meeting by members of the Dog Protective association was held Tuesday evening at the home of J. H. Murphy, 117 East Acacia, at which preliminary action was taken to organize the Glendale Humane society, the host and Alexander Mitchell being appointed a committee to secure a charter and if possible present it at the next meeting to be held at the home of Edwin F. Kulp, 355 Vine street, the last Tuesday evening in November. As soon as a charter is secured the society will affiliate with the state organization.

About thirty were present and at the close of the business meeting refreshments of ice cream and cake were served during a very pleasant social hour.

Members indicated their desire, after the society has been duly organized, to have charge of the city pound and of an animal hospital in connection, under authority of the city; but that is a matter concerning which no negotiations have been undertaken.

Mrs. Edwin Kulp referred to the "Bide a Wee" home or clearing house on Mariposa avenue in Altadena where pets which the owners must part with can be received and placed in homes. She stated that any good dog or cat is almost certain to find a good home in a short time.

MODERN EDUCATION

The higher educational system of this country has been builded slowly. It stands now as a natural growth, the expression of evolutionary processes. That it is far from perfect is not to be denied. Occasionally it is assailed as being without merit. Such assaults may be ascribed to ignorance or prejudice, and they do no harm. On the contrary they may result in good by calling attention to real flaws. When an educator, his life devoted to instructing the minds of the young, says that the system is in need of drastic correction, he will be listened to with respect. His hearers may not agree with him fully, but they are bound to admit that he is speaking with some authority. Such an educator is Prof. Breitweiser of the University of California.

The proposals of this teacher are startling. He says that students should select, promote and dismiss their professors; that university affairs should be controlled by a group chosen from the student body acting with the faculty. He would abolish degrees, award diplomas solely on the basis of accomplishment, and have all courses elective.

It is his belief that college students are better equipped to deal with the actual conditions of life than any other class of people. This is a compliment that classmen should appreciate. It is perhaps the highest estimate that has been placed upon their erudition. A similar compliment is involved in the plan of making studies wholly elective. It is possible that this is too flattering. It assumes that all students are bent on the acquisition of learning. Laziness, inefficiency, frivolity and lack of experence are obliterated from the collective student character. Whence this vast wisdom of the young and untrained? There are students who, if free to choose the course throughout, would emerge without having chosen one subject to conquer which could be a strain on gray matter, if such their heads contain.

The student who goes to college, not because it is easier than working, or that it is regarded as the proper thing to do, or for the sake of social enjoyment, but for serious purpose, doubtless has a sound idea of what he desires to accomplish, and of the studies that would be helpful. Modern institutions more and more are according freedom to the students, giving them a voice in affairs. Probably this is more for the sake of the students themselves, than with any thought of overturning present methods altogether. Out of the suggestion of this professor, and others, may come decisive benefits, a series of gradual changes rather than a revolution.

WITH MIXED EMOTIONS

Lloyd George, friendly and welcome visitor, finds occasion while in this country, to condemn the conduct of the French in relation to Germany. At the same time, or a little earlier, a representative of the French nation was saying "Save us from our friends." And in speaking he had meant Lloyd George. It's all a sad, sad mixup. Two great people so lately allies; people that should be side by side in promoting the interests of civilization, urging the world to tranquil ways, unable now to agree. And the United States earnestly desires to be on good terms, in fact, is on good terms with both, although the situation becomes delicate occasionally.

Americans appreciate the position of England with its enormous taxes, its unemployed, and its shattered commerce. They would be glad indeed, were these conditions to pass. They appreciate also the position of France, ravaged by an enemy that was defeated and that promised to pay. It never had paid, so far as the world knows, never intended to make the effort. Now, according to latest reports it frankly admits its intention of not paying. Such was the intention France assumed had been held from the first. Therefore France undertook to collect by force. It acted on a natural impulse. Its pride and its sense of justice rebelled against permitting itself to be vanquished in peace by the enemy over which it had triumphed in the field.

So there is the status. It does not appear that England is illogical in its attitude. It does not appear that France has acted save in self-defense. Yet the two attitudes cause a clashing of interests and a strain on mutual amity. And what may America, concerned for both, with kindest feeling towards both, do about it?

DECLINING AN HONOR

Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois is said to have been offered, and to have declined the ambassadorship to the Court of St. James. Selection for such a post is an honor that it hardly is conceivable an American would willingly forego. The station has been filled by men of the highest character and attainment. Lowell, Bayard, Hay, Choate, and the late Walter Page who, in the dread conditions of war won fame and affection, dying greatly beloved, a martyr to duty.

There are certain drawbacks, however, sufficient to close this door of opportunity. It is necessary that the American ambassador in London be rich. The person of such income as might mean comfort or even luxury under ordinary circumstances would find his resources utterly inadequate to meet the demands of his official position. As a rule the American ambassador has paid more for rent than the amount of his salary. Thus a man to accept the position must be financially independent. Doubtless there are many Americans intellectually fit for the station, well enough versed in diplomacy to fill the requirements and socially of a type to be welcomed, who, offered the place, would have to refuse it. Walter Page did not have a large fortune, but enough so as to be willing to serve four years. After that he was held by a sense of obligation and by staying sacrificed a large part of his wealth to the service of his country.

The people of this country want big men as their representatives to first class governments. They feel that any other type would be a reflection upon the character of the American people. To find a man who is at once rich, capable and willing to take the responsibility regardless of financial loss to himself, certainly is a difficult task.

It is said of three members of congress who have returned from being feted in Russia, that they undertook the trip on their "own initiative." It would be interesting to have them explain then the loud and long trumpeting of the boast that they were sent by Hearst, who was supposed to have arranged for their reception by his good friends in Moscow, and to have planned their itinerary. If the gentlemen have been placed in a false light, now is their time to say so. If the country is wrong in supposing them to be the emissaries and tools of bolshevism, surely they owe to themselves the duty of vindication. This is particularly necessary, since without the vindication, their reports will be useless.

There are hints of graft in relation to taking prisoners from southern California to the penitentiaries up north. If there is such crookedness as hints convey, it might easily be uncovered, one would suppose. Perhaps the only cure will be to erect a commodious penitentiary nearer Los Angeles county.

As an aspirant for the national republican convention Denver has at least the advantage of being centrally located. Delegates from each coast could reach that city at a fair division of expense. However, when partisan fervor is aroused, there is no consideration of costs. At least not until later.

A generous man doesn't give his friends away.

THE "REWARD" OF VIRTUE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The French government has made a gesture. It has clicked its heels together, saluted and hurrahed for motherhood.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

When the echoes of the hurrah had died down the government presented a medal to Madame Marie Grasset who had 24 children in 25 years; and further proved its appreciation for and understanding (?) of the needs of mothers by systematically dismissing all prospective mothers who had been holding positions in any of the government departments.

It seems that in France a medal is sufficient; when it settles down to a business proposition of allowing mothers to earn money to care for their babies, that is different.

Prospective mothers do not as a rule work outside their homes save under the spur of dire necessity; and to dismiss a married woman from a position because she is going to have a child, as one might dismiss one for disgraceful conduct, and later hand her a medal for doing the thing that brought about her dismissal strikes one as being a bit incongruous.

Of course, all the papers came out in editorials, following the medal giving, and said what a wonderful thing Madame Grasset had done for France. Well, we do not know anything about the little Grassets; but unless they are healthy and law abiding, educated and trained it may well be that Madame Grasset had presented France with 24 problems rather than 24 soldiers.

When it comes to intensive child bearing kept up through the years, with the kaiser and the army officers applauding it, would be hard to beat the record made by the Germany woman for the 40 years preceding the war. What their activities did for Germany was to give her a population so much too big for her territory that the world war resulted.

The security of a nation depends less on the number of soldiers in its army than on a number of other factors; and anyhow if the world is to return to pristine barbarism with the energies and thoughts of all men given over to the science of killing, the Madame Grassets of the world are breeding victims for the machines produced by a monstrous and degraded science.

Anyhow, until France can permit prospective mothers to work in her government departments it is cheap hypocrisy to pretend to honor motherhood by giving medals to one woman while dismissing others for doing the very thing that the government professed to honor in a gesture that cost nothing but the price of a bauble.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

No one would ever call Thomas Carraway Kelley an easy man to get along with. His eyebrows look like twin strips of grizzled monkey fur. His new false teeth have the sheen of battle axes freshly ground. He bellows with remarkable ease and continuity. Everytime I have sent a youngster to T. Carraway Kelley with a letter of introduction I have said:

"Go easy. Produce no sudden jolts or detonations in his vicinity. Remember that only the whim of fate made Kelley a man of peace. If he blows up get under a rock and wait for the pieces to come down."

So they have presented the letters, boy after boy, and been given jobs, and been resonantly, vociferously, redundantly fired a little later. I determined to stop tossing quivering raw meat into his den. I was surprised into speechlessness when he told me that he had secured the prize of all office boys.

"He's smart as a gutter rat," said he.

When that disaster occurred in Tokyo, Kelley was away on his vacation. It means a good deal to him and he drove pell-mell to a wire. There he found a telegram from his office manager, suggesting that a certain course be pursued. Kelley crushed the suggestion as emphatically as the telegraph company would permit and wrote a long telegram of orders. By and by the reply came.

"I think you're wrong," wired the office manager, who had once been the gutter rat. "I'll obey orders if you insist, but my reasons for suggesting a different course are—"

I expected to see Kelley out-color a sunset over Mt. Shasta. Instead he wired the office manager to go ahead on his own lines.

"That boy never 'yes-sed' me in his life," said Kelley. "I don't hire men to agree with me. I hire 'em to think. If any one has to do the agreeing, I'll do it."

I'm happy that I do not work for Kelley. I wouldn't last an hour against that human uproar.

THE LISTENING POST

By Colonel W. Reid

CHAPTER XI

Berwind canyon is about in the center of the district that saw the strike in 1912, one of the longest in the history of the mines in this state and accompanied with riot, bloodshed and finally ending with the burning of a tent colony of striking miners and the suffocation of thirteen women and children, who had taken refuge in a cellar beneath the board floor of a tent while firing was in progress between the miners and the militia. The strike was the result of a movement on the part of the M. W. A. to unionize the mines of southern Colorado. It failed of its object, and the mines are run on the open shop principle. There is an industrial representation system, by which the men elect their own representatives who look after their interests in all matters of dispute or controversy.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Those whose memories are not too short will remember when the section about here was an armed camp. Miners were armed with rifles, revolvers and weapons of various kinds and in many instances there was terrorizing of mining communities, shooting into houses, assassination of non-union miners and officials, and in one instance a physician who went out into an open area near one of the mines to render aid to a wounded man was shot down and killed. The number of deaths was forty or fifty altogether. The strike lasted for more than a year.

Coming here we passed the monument that stands in the middle of the area between here and the railroad station of Ludlow, near which the battle between the striking miners and militia took place and where the tent colony was burned. There were something more than 200 tents in the colony. There the striking miners and their families lived and these colonies were focal points of disturbance.

In the final clash between rioters and militia shots were fired through the day and into the evening. About seven or seven thirty at night the tent colony took fire and was destroyed, with the suffocation of the women and children stated above. The M. W. A. erected the monument and it stands out alone in the flat land, surrounded by an iron fence. The names of those who lost their lives are upon it.

It was dedicated by miners' union officials and union miners a number of years ago, when feeling was still at a considerable height. And it stands today as one of the evidences of the result of violence, rioting, assassination, intimidation and lawlessness in carrying on a strike.

The tent colony was burned on April 20, 1913. How the fire began is not known. The miners claim the colony was set on fire. But with firing over and through the colony of tents it is not difficult to see where inflammable material would be fired with passing bullets or the explosion of ammunition within the camp. However it may be, the following Saturday night was one not to be forgotten by residents of Trinidad. The streets were crowded from curb to curb and building to building with strikers and their sympathizers.

All kinds of weapons were carried and all kinds of threats made. Men walked the streets with rifles on their shoulders and little bags of ammunition. Among the leaders of the mobs were Greeks and Bulgars, from long battling and fighting in their home lands having a natural inclination for such work. Following that, the request was made for federal troops and with their arrival the rioting ceased and the country roundabout was relieved of its reign of terror.

Songs of the Poets

To the Western Wind By Robert Herrick (1591-1674)

Sweet western wind, whose luck it is,
Made rival with the air,
To give Perenna's lip a kiss,
And fan her wanton hair:

Bring me but one, I'll promise thee,
Instead of common showers,
Thy wings shall be embalm'd by me,
And all beset with flowers.

A COUNTRY WITHOUT A GOVERNMENT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

CHINA, in some ways the best governed country in the world, might still be called a country without a government.

The regulation of every citizen by law, as we understand it, is something entirely foreign to Chinese ideas.

Our notion of a state is that of a population who are kept in order by certain rules printed in a statute book and by certian officials appointed to enforce them. The Chinese view is radically different.

Chinese life moves on by custom, not by law, by habit and tradition, and not by external authority.

When the Emperors ceased, and the central dynasty that had ruled at Peking for many centuries passed away, everybody expected that the land would be plunged into anarchy. That is what would have happened in any western nation. As a matter of fact it did not seem to make much difference, and things went on about as before. Of course there was loud political contention, and exciting news items about rival presidents and parliaments were given out to the press, but the vast majority of China's millions never batted an eye. Business continued as usual.

Some time ago when there was a police strike in Boston there ensued much disorder and looting. Recently there was a strike of the police in Peking, and there was not the slightest increase in crime.

China seems to be the one country in the world where all the governors, police, officials and soldiers might all go fishing and not come back, and it wouldn't make much difference.

I asked a man who had lived in China for many years and knew conditions rather thoroughly about life in the villages. What he told me was curious. The head man in the place does not seem to be elected by voting, but just comes to his job by a process of natural selection.

He decides questions because people bring them to him. When there is a dispute about property or rights, the disputants come to him to settle it as a matter of course. Everybody recognizes his authority, and he even holds the power of life and death. He gets no salary.

When he dies his successor is not voted for but just gravitates to the place in response to the common judgment of the community.

Of course, there are many exceptions and variations to all this, but in a general way it gives an idea of the vast, imperturable and resistless momentum of the Chinese race.

There has been much talk of banditry in China, but there has always been banditry, and it has recently excited comment simply because some foreigners were captured.

Like everything else Chinese, banditry is difficult to understand. It is not at all the same thing as outlawry in western countries. The bandits are not hardened criminals as a rule. Perhaps the nearest way for us to come to an understanding of it is to think of banditry as the Chinese way of striking.

Strikes in Europe and America are an attempt at government by nuisance. That is, a group of men, finding they cannot obtain their ends by the recognized processes of law, conspire to stop all business, or in some way to render the community so uncomfortable that attention will be paid to their demands.

And that is all the bandits are after. They get what they want about as often as the strikers do.

Some time ago in New York City the workmen on a building struck for exorbitant wages and a lot of overtime pay; the contractor was compelled to yield to their demands or go bankrupt on account of his agreements. He gave them what they wanted because they had him by the throat. Shortly after the Chinese bandits held up a train on the road between Shanghai and Peking, took a number of the passengers into captivity and held them there until a certain number of thousands of dollars were paid for ransom and all the bandits were enlisted in the army as soldiers. Banditry is simply a Chinese kind of strike.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

BERGER'S IDEA OF CRIME

[Worcester Telegram]

Congressman Victor L. Berger, returning from Europe, says: "The outcome of the war vindicates, by subsequent happenings in Europe and in the United States, the stand I took against our entering the war. If we had known then what we know today, do you think you could get us into that war again? All America got out of the war was prohibition, the flu, eighteen to twenty billion dollars in debts, and 328,000 casualties among her young soldiers. . . . If America had not interfered with the world war it would have ended as a draw and Europe would have worked out its own destiny."

America got something out of the war besides burdens. It got relief from fear of a Hun triumph. Mr. Berger and some others who are disappointed at events since the armistice always forget what the world has escaped as a result of the allied victory.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Comes forward now a man who says he is a biologist, with a declaration that feminine beauty is disappearing. Looking forward with dyspeptic vision, he beholds an era in which all women are to be ugly.

HENRY JAMES

"Our beautiful women will soon cease to exist except in picture and statuary," says Wigham, the biologist in question. He displayed a sort of courage, however. He was talking to a crowd of school teachers, the great majority of whom carry vanity-bags.

Since the beginning there has been a studied effort to conduct this column with a certain reserve and dignity. Otherwise the sole answer to Wigham would be "Rats!" Such language being inhibited, it is necessary to say that he is wasting time in talking such foolishness to school marms; they know better, whether or not they were restrained by courtesy from telling him so.

Wigham bases his conclusion on the disparity of the birth rate among American women of the highest type, and that among low class immigrants; a circumstance that gives the conclusion a very frail foundation.

Physical beauty, like gold, is where you find it. It is as likely to develop in the slum as in the most desirable environment. It is quite apart from character, or to a certain extent, from intelligence. There are pretty faces on the screen, lots of them. How much brains? What substantial proof of breeding?

Says Wigham "the mother must replace the flapper as the national ideal."

Can't he quit his nonsense! The flapper never has been a national ideal. But often the flapper has beauty, and the likelihood is that having ceased her flapping and become domesticated, she will pass it to her children.

The editor of an agricultural paper in Oklahoma says that the greatest thing that could be done for the farmers would be elimination of the "cowless, sowless and henless farm."

It may be remarked without fear of contradiction that in that remark the editor said a mouthful.

Successful farming is carried on in many states, but the successful farmer feeds himself and family on the products of his land, and has something left over. He is not a "one-crop" specialist.

The idea of a farm that has no milk, butter, pork or eggs for the domestic table except as bought in the nearest market, at fancy prices, is nothing short of grotesque. What is a farm for?

Everybody would be glad to see the farmer prosper, but if he can't raise butter and eggs, he never can raise his mortgage, if he has one, and no artificial help could do him any good.

The other day a dry agent fell dead, and the rumor started that he had been poisoned.

As it had been his custom to buy bootleg liquor and drink it for the sake of being able to give testimony as to its character, there probably is something in the rumor, although deliberate murder hardly is indicated. The demise may be more in the nature of suicide.

Villa's ghost will not down. Ordinarily when a bandit is dead and buried, he ceases from troubling, but the late Villa was a different type.

There is a Mexican official who is charged with having connived at the killing of the revolutionist. Some are inclined to believe him guilty and to condemn him. Another faction, also believing him guilty, would like to award him honors. The Mexicans are emotional and curious.

In explaining why she became a shoplifter a young woman said that sometimes her system demanded dope costing $90 per week. Of course she could not command any such income by toil, and the demand was imperative.

It would appear that addiction to drugs is a state of luxury that should be avoided by the poor.

Somebody has attacked the validity of the law forbidding aliens to carry arms. This is no sign that the law is bad. The protest against it is the result of mere habit. Some lawyers are so constituted that their immediate impulse upon meeting a law is to kick a hole in it.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

TIME

The high school child needs a time table and a watch, and a pressing knowledge of their necessity in his young life. Dawdling is characteristic of the greater part of the adolescent group as it appears in the high schools.

"I'm not prepared for history today. I spent so much time on my algebra last night that I couldn't get it in. I stayed up all hours, too, and I've got an awful headache! I always get them if I don't get to bed on time. Don't you?"

"Yes! I was late this morning. Didn't know what time it was. When I saw the clock in the drug store I started to run, but I couldn't make it. Had to miss chem. That's why I have to go to detention. How'd I know it was late?"

"Did you finish all the questions? Neither did I. That third was so long that I didn't have nearly enough time for the rest. I spent three-quarters of the hour on it and the old hen, she wouldn't give us another minute."

Youngsters do not know how to conserve their time and energy; to give each activity its place and time; to divide their time so as to cover the most important points of the lesson, letting the minor ones fall into place. They have to learn the use of a clock and a time table.

Each of them ought to make a schedule for every day in the week and have it reviewed by his mother and teacher. The schedule must show what he intends to do every hour of his waking time. It should show the time of his rising, time for breakfast, for reaching school, for study, for play, for rest.

It sounds very schooly and rigid, but no child will follow a schedule so rigidly that it becomes deadly routine. He will use it as a guide that points out where he is losing time and where he can save it.

Often one hears girls saying, "I'd just love to, but I'm simply crazy for time. I don't see how I can get it in."

And then one sees them stand at the school gate and lament their hurried existence for an hour or so until the janitor goes grumbling to shut the gates. If they had a schedule that called them home they would save an enormous amount of time and energy.

Knowing what is to be done next saves a lot of waste and worry. That is why busy folk always have time and the putterer never has any.

The children are living in a world governed by clocks. They might just as well get used to it now and make out their schedules, set their wrist watches, and get busy. Time flies and the clock ticks off its flight. "Tick, tick," is a promise and a warning.

DUPLEX

Consists of two apartments, one 3 and one 4-room. Owner occupying the 4-room one, which has oak floors, fireplace, large dining and living room combined, bedroom, cabinet kitchen, and wallbed. The 3-room apartment is rented for $51 a month. Each has separate bath, lavatory, and toilet. The two are entirely separated. Double garage. The location is of the best, on high ground, has a beautiful view, and is surrounded by beautiful homes. Close to stores and yellow cars. The price is low, considering the class of property. $6650, about $2650 cash will handle. It rents for $90 per month. Those who want a home and income can occupy one and rent the other apartment. I believe this to be the best buy in the city for a resonable priced income property, and it is well worth investigating. See

BECAUSE of our very nominal service charge, a listing solicitor will not be employed. It is our desire to insure as near as possible better satisfied and permanent tenants; to do this it is necessary to have careful and detailed descriptions of all listings and we suggest that you make your listings in person so that full information regarding your property may be thoroughly indexed and properly presented to prospective tenants. This careful indexing of your property further insures for you, "The Desirable Tenant."

YOU SHOULD avail yourself of this exclusive rental service by listing your entire holdings though now occupied, then when you have a vacancy or notice of vacancy you need only to notify us on the phone to receive prompt action. For those who have depended entirely upon a "For Rent Sign" this service will save days of unoccupancy and likewise for those who list with their favorite broker (maintain this listing) but in addition use this Central Rent Bureau, it will give you excetpionally quick service.

BEAR IN MIND that this service is devoted entirely and exclusively to the use of all persons desiring unfurnished homes for rent, and all will seek the aid of this service.

WE have a (wanted) waiting list, and we suggest that you phone us your present vacancies immediately.

PRINTERS TO HAVE NATIONAL HOME

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 23.—Millionaires will have nothing on the aged and infirm members of the International Typographical Union if the organization's executive council finds merit in the proposal of the West Palm Beach union local for the establishment of a home in Florida. The southern union has offered 50 acres of land for the nucleus of a home site in the Palm Beach region along the famous Indian River in the heart of the orange country.

High up in the Rocky mountains the international union now maintains a Union Printers' home that is larger and more imposing than most resort hotels and the grounds of which cover 250 acres. Hospital facilities at the home near Colorado Springs have attracted wide attention and artistic landscaping has added to the beauty of the scenery of the farflung mountains.

The addition of a Florida home in the winter climate belt was proposed at the recent convention of the union in Atlanta, Ga., and the executive council was instructed to investigate. The council will journey to Florida this winter to view the West Palm Beach site and also to look at other property in that state suggested by members of the union.

FOUNTAIN THROWS COLORED JETS

Most decorative is an electric fountain that throws constantly changing colored jets of water into the air. As the fountain is small it could be used to advantage in the sun-room or foyer.

"Was there anybody else he knew—any other woman?"

"Not that I know of! He always made out he was so fond of me that he couldn't even look at another woman. Poor Svengali!" (Here her eyes filled with tears again.) "He was always very kind! But I never could be fond of him in the way he wished—never! It made me sick even to think of! Once I used to hate him—in Paris—in the studio; don't you remember?

"He hardly ever left me; and then Marta looked after me—for I've always been weak and ill—and often so languid that I could hardly walk across the room. It was that walk from Vibraye to Paris. I never got over it.

"I used to try and do all I could—be a daughter to him, as I couldn't be anything else—mend his things, and all that, and cook him little French dishes. I fancy he was very poor at one time; we were always moving from place to place. But I always had the best of everything. He insisted on that—even if he had to go without himself. It made him quite unhappy when I wouldn't eat, so I used to force myself.

"Then, as soon as I felt uneasy about things, or had any pain, he would say, 'Dors, ma mignonne!' and I would sleep at once—for hours, I think—and wake up, oh, so tired! and find him kneeling by me, always so anxious and kind—and Marta and Gecko! and sometimes we had the doctor, and I was ill in bed.

"Gecko used to dine and breakfast with us—you've no idea what an angel he is, poor little Gecko! But what a dreadful thing to strike Svengali! Why did he? Svengali taught him all he knows!"

"And you knew no one else—no other woman?"

"No one that I can remember—except Marta—not a soul!"

"And that beautiful dress you had on last night?"

"It isn't mine. Its on the bed up-stairs, and so's the fur cloak. They belong to Marta. She's got lots of them, lovely things—silk, satin, velvet—and lots of beautiful jewels. Marta deals in them, and makes lots of money.

"I've often tried them on; I'm very easy to fit," she said, "being so tall and thin. And poor Svengali would kneel down and cry, and kiss my hands and feet, and tell me I was his goddess and empress, and all that, which I hate. And Marta used to cry, too. And then he would say,

"'Et maintenant dors, ma mignonne!'

"And when I woke up I was so tired that I went to sleep again on my own account.

"But he was very patient. Oh, dear me! I've always been a poor, helpless, useless log and burden to him!

"Once I actually walked in my sleep—and woke up in the marketplace at Prague—and found an immense crowd, and poor Svengali bleeding from the forehead in a faint on the ground. He'd been knocked down by a horse and cart, he told me. He'd got his guitar with him. I suppose he and Gecko had been playing somewhere, for Gecko had his fiddle. If Gecko hadn't been there, I don't know what we should have done. You never saw such queer people as they were—such crowds—you'd think they'd never seen an Englishwoman before. The noise they made, and the things they gave me . . . some of them went down on their knees, and kissed my hands and the skirts of my gown.

"He was ill in bed for a week after that, and I nursed him, and he was very grateful. Poor Svengali! God knows I felt grateful to him for many things! Tell me how he died! I hope he hadn't much pain."

They told her it was quite sudden, from heart-disease.

"Ah! I knew he had that; he wasn't a healthy man; he used to smoke too much. Marta used always to be very anxious."

Just then Marta came in.

Marta was a fat, elderly Jewess of rather a grotesque and ignoble type. She seemed overcome with grief—all but prostrate.

Trilby hugged and kissed her, and took off her bonnet and shawl, and made her sit down in a big arm-chair, and got her a footstool.

She couldn't speak a word of anything but Polish and a little German. Trilby had also picked up a little German, and, with this and by means of signs, and no doubt through a long intimacy with each other's ways, they understood each other very well. She seemed a very good old creature, and very fond of Trilby, but in mortal terror of the three Englishmen.

Lunch was brought up for the two women and the nurse, and our friends left them, promising to come again that day.

They were utterly bewildered; and the Laird would have it that there was another Madame Svengali somewhere, the real one, and that Trilby was a fraud—self-deceived and self-deceiving—quite unconsciously so, of course.

Truth looked out of her eyes, as it always had done—truth was in every line of her face.

The truth only—nothing but the truth could ever be told in that "voice of velvet," which rang as true when she spoke as that of any thrush or nightingale, however rebellious it might be now (and forever perhaps) to artificial melodic laws and limitations and restraints. The long training it had been subjected to had made it "a wonder, a world's delight," and though she might never sing another note, her mere speech would always be more golden than any silence, whatever she might say.

Except on the one particular point of her singing, she had seemed absolutely sane—so, at least, thought Taffy, the Laird, and Little Billee. And each thought to himself, besides, that this last incarnation of Trilbyness was quite the sweetest, most touching, most endearing of all.

They had not failed to note how rapidly she had aged, now that they had seen her without her rouge and pearl-powder; she looked thirty at least—she was only twenty-three.

Her hands were almost transparent in their waxen whiteness; delicate little frosty wrinkles had gathered round her eyes; there were gray streaks in her hair; all strength and straightness and elasticity seemed to have gone out of her with the memory of her endless triumphs (if she really was la Svengali), and of her many wanderings from city to city all over Europe.

It was evident enough that the sudden stroke which had destroyed her power of singing had left her physically a wreck.

But she was one of those rarely gifted beings who cannot look or speak or even stir without waking up (and satisfying) some vague longing that lies dormant in the hearts of most of us, men and women alike; grace, charm, magnetism—whatever the nameless seduction should be called that she possessed to such an unusual degree—she had lost none of it when she lost her high spirits, her buoyant health and energy, her wits!

Tuneless and insane, she was more of a siren than ever—a quite unconscious siren—without any guile, who appealed to the heart all the more directly and irresistibly that she could no longer stir the passions.

All this was keenly felt by all three—each in his different way—by Taffy and Little Billee especially.

All her past life was forgiven—her sins of omission and commission! And whatever might be her fate—recovery, madness, disease, or death—the care of her till she died or recovered should be the principal business of their lives.

Both had loved her. All three, perhaps. One had been loved by her as passionately, as purely, as unselfishly as any man could wish to be loved, and in some extraordinary manner had recovered, after many years, at the mere sudden sight and sound of her, his lost share in our common inheritance—the power to love, and all its joy and sorrow; without which he had found life not worth living, though he had possessed every other gift and blessing in such abundance.

"Oh, Circe, poor Circe, dear Circe, divine enchantress that you were!" he said to himself, in his excitable way. "A mere look from your eyes, a mere note of your heavenly voice, has turned a poor miserable callous brute back into a man again! and I will never forget it—never! And now that a still worse trouble than mine has befallen you, you shall always be first in my thoughts till the end!"

And Taffy felt pretty much the same, though he was not by way of talking to himself so eloquent about things as Little Billee.

As they lunched, they read the accounts of the previous evening's events in different papers, three or four of which (including the Times) had already got leaders about the famous but unhappy singer who had been so suddenly widowed and struck down in the midst of her glory. All these accounts were more or less correct. In one paper it was mentioned that Madame Svengali was under the roof and care of Mr. William Bagot, the painter, in Fitzroy Square.

The inquest on Svengali was to take place that afternoon, and also Gecko's examination at the Bow Street Police Court, for his assault.

Taffy was allowed to see Gecko, who was remanded till the result of the post-mortem should be made public. But beyond inquiring most anxiously and minutely after Trilby, and betraying the most passionate concern for her, he would say nothing, and seemed indifferent as to his own fate.

When they went to Fitzroy Square, late in the afternoon, they found that many people, musical, literary, fashionable, and otherwise (and many foreigners), had called to inquire after Madame Svengali, but no one had been admitted to see her. Mrs. Godwin was much elated by the importance of her new lodger.

Trilby had been writing to Angele Boisse, at her old address in the Rue des Cloitres Ste. Petronille, in the hope that this letter would find her still there. She was anxious to go back and be a blanchisseuse de fin with her friend. It was a kind of nostalgia for Paris, the quartier latin, her clean old trade.

This project our three heroes did not think it necessary to discuss with her just yet; she seemed quite unfit for work of any kind.

The doctor, who had seen her again, had been puzzled by her strange physical weakness, and wished for a consultation with some special authority; Little Billee, who was intimate with most of the great physicians, wrote about her to Sir Oliver Calthorpe.

She seemed to find a deep happiness in being with her three old friends, and talked and listened with all her old eagerness and geniality, and much of her old gayety, in spite of her strange and sorrowful position. But for this it was impossible to realize that her brain was affected in the slightest degree, except when some reference was made to her singing, and this seemed to annoy and irritate her, as though she were being made fun of. The whole of her marvellous musical career, and everything connected with it, had been clean wiped out of her recollection.

She was very anxious to get into other quarters, that Little Billee should suffer no inconvenience, and they promised to take rooms for her and Marta on the morrow.

She talked and listened with all her old eagerness.

They told her cautiously all about Svengali and Gecko, she was deeply concerned, but betrayed no such poignant anguish as might have been expected. The thought of Gecko troubled her most, and she showed much anxiety as to what might befall him.

Next day she moved with Marta to some lodgings in Charlotte Street, where everything was made as comfortable for them as possible.

Sir Oliver saw her with Dr. Thorne (the doctor who was attending her) and Sir Jacob Wilcox.

Sir Oliver took the greatest interest in her case, both for her sake and his friend Little Billee's. Also his own, for he was charmed with her. He saw her three times in the course of the week, but could not say for certain what was the matter with her, beyond taking the very gravest view of her condition. For all he could advise or prescribe, her weakness and physical prostration increased rapidly, through no cause he could discover. Her insanity was not enough to account for it. She lost weight daily; she seemed to be wasting and fading away from sheer general atrophy.

ORDINANCE NO. 859

AN ORDINANCE CREATING FIRST CLASS RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT NO. 15 IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE AND REGULATING THE PURPOSES FOR WHICH BUILDINGS, STRUCTURES OR PREMISES MAY BE CONSTRUCTED OR MAINTAINED THEREIN.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation hereafter to maintain, carry on, establish, enlarge or extend any industry, trade or business of any kind or character whatsoever within the first class residential district hereby created and designated as "First Class Residential District No. 15."

SECTION 2: It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to erect, construct, establish, alter or maintain or cause or permit to be erected, constructed, established, altered or maintained within the first class residential district hereinafter described and known and designated as "First Class Residential District No. 15," any building or premises which shall be used, designed, maintained or arranged to be occupied or used for any purpose other than a single family residence with its usual accessories, except that one duplex house designed or arranged to be occupied or used by not more than two single families, with its usual accessories, may be located or erected on any lot, or parcel of land, within said district. The term "single family residence" as used in this ordinance shall not include more than two buildings located on the same lot or parcel of land. Such single family residence shall be used, designed, maintained or arranged to be occupied or used only for a single family residence. No apartment house or bungalow court may be erected or located within said district. The term "usual accessories" shall not include any building or use not located on the same lot or parcel of land with the building or use to which it is accessory and shall not include any private garage containing space for more than four automobiles.

SECTION 3: That the First Class Residential District hereby created which shall be designated as "First Class Residential District No. 15" is all that portion of the City of Glendale within the following boundaries:

Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 38, Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place as per map recorded in Book 8, Pages 122 and 123, of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly lines of Lots 38 to 23, both inclusive, of said Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place to the northeasterly corner of said Lot 23; thence southerly in a direct line across an alley to the northwesterly corner of Lot 20 of said Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 20 to the westerly line of Central Avenue; thence southerly along the westerly line of Central Avenue to the southeasterly corner of Lot 19, of said Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 19 to the southwesterly corner thereof; thence southerly in a direct line across an alley to the southeasterly corner of Lot 16, said Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place; thence westerly along the southerly lines of Lots 16 to 1, both inclusive, of said Pioneer Investment and Trust Company Glendale Place to the easterly line of Columbus Avenue; thence northerly along the easterly line of Columbus Avenue to the point of beginning.

SECTION 4: Nothing in this ordinance contained shall be deemed or construed as repealing any ordinance of the City of Glendale regulating the establishment or maintenance of businesses and industries within the residential districts of the City of Glendale, or any ordinance creating residential districts and regulating the purposes for which buildings, structures or premises may be erected, constructed or maintained, and prohibiting the establishment or maintenance of businesses or industries.

SECTION 5: Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500.00 or by imprisonment in the City Jail, or the County Jail of Los Angeles County, for a period of not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each such person, firm or corporation shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense for every day during any portion of which any violation of any provision of this ordinance is committed, continued or permitted, by such person, firm or corporation, and shall be punishable therefor as provided by this ordinance.

SECTION 6: The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance, and shall cause the same to be published once in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City, and it shall take effect and be in force on the thirtieth day after its passage.

Passed by the Council of the City of Glendale on this 18th day of October, 1923.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.
ATTEST: A. J. VAN WIE,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

PLAYS TO BE GIVEN NOV. 16 BY BREWSTER

"Molly," "Proposal" and "Goodnight" Are the Plays

WILL BE COMEDIES

Mr. Brewster To Choose Members for Casts In a Week

On the evening of November 16 the dramatic department under Mr. Brewster will present three one-act plays in the high school auditorium. Each year these plays are put on and this is an event which all students look forward to. The plays this year promise to be very interesting and humorous.

The first play on the program will be "Miss Molly," a two-act play by Elizabeth Gale. This is a comedy which deals with a crabbed old man who has no friends. His neice, a pretty, lively girl impersonates a governess in his household and in this way wins the old man and also his millions. A humorous situation comes up between the colored maid and the janitor.

"The Proposal," by Stuart Walker, is the second play. It is all that the name implies. The young man is trying to propose to his sweetheart after they have quarrel and he tries to do it between dances at a party which they both attend. It has a surprise ending, so all students ought to make it a point to see this play.

The third play is a burlesque on a rehearsal of the play "Dawn," which is to be given by the Dramatic Women's Uplift Society. The title is "Good Night, A Rehearsal of 'Dawn'" All girls will compose the cast, two of them taking boys' parts. The play which the society is rehearsing is supposed to be very melodramatic and there are many humorous situations in the play.

This year the plays promise to be peppier and livelier than ever before. Glen Roberts, secretary of Assemblies, is working very hard as also is Mr. Brewster to make the plays a success. The members of the casts have not yet been decided upon but Mr. Brewster expects to have them arranged in a few days. Everyone should keep this date free for the plays as they will be certainly worth while.

AN ART CRITICISM

A ragged kid in a torn straw hat,
With his hair stuck through, an' a sassy smile,
An' one suspender 'crost, like that—
Wal—it may be art, but it ain't my style.

Diggin' th' sand with his bare big toe,
An' a big loose patch sewed to his knee;
Shovin' his hands in his pockets—so;
Why they call that art, dogged ef I see.

Why, th' little runt 'et's painted there,
With his eyes half closed, an' winkin' down,
Th' sassy little rat, I swear
I've seen him, right in my own town.

Them funny freckles, big an' brown,
'N' them ragged pants an' that torn straw hat
I bet I kin find, right in our town,
A dozen kids 'et look like that.

Why, sho! I've caught more kids like that
In th' limbs o'-my own apple tree,
Lookin' out under that ol' straw hat,
An' winkin' sassy down at me.

Th' little scamp! I kin almost hear
Him say: "Hev an apple, Dad," an' throw
One down an' ketch me on th' ear!
Why they call that art, dogged ef I know.

An' th' goldarned thing! A city chap
Come along an' paid five hundred cold
Fer it, an' thought he had a snap.
I had t' laugh 't how he got sold.

A ragged kid in a torn straw hat,
Like I've seen a hundred times, I bet;
An' payin' out that much fer that!
B' gosh, th' fools ain't all dead yet!

OWL DRUG CO. PUTS ON BIG ONE CENT SALE

Buy An Article at Regular Price, Get Duplicate for 1 Cent

One of Glendale's greatest merchandising events, the one-cent sale to be conducted on Thursday, Friday and Saturday by the Owl Drug company, corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, successors to A. G. Spohr Drug Co., will be just the thing that you have been waiting for. Many will undoubtedly avail themselves of the opportunity to stock up not only for months ahead, but will also purchase for Christmas gifts.

By purchasing one article at the regular price, another item of the same kind may be secured for one cent more. The articles offered in this unusual sale cover a wide range. There will be toilet preparations, stationery, box candy, ice cream, rubber goods, household preparations, drugs and miscellaneous sundries.

The toilet preparations include toilet water, talcum and face powders, cold cream, skin lotions, tooth paste and powder, etc. The ice cream counter promises to be a busy place, with two pints of brick ice cream offered for the price of one, plus one cent.

It would be advisable to shop early as there will be a big demand for the articles offered. Additional information as to the goods offered will be found in the advertisement which appears elsewhere in this issue.

The Owl Drug company, with its hundreds of stores in all the important and many smaller cities of the nation and consequent immense buying power, is a notable addition to the Glendale business world. Prices rule the same in all the stores and these one-cent sales are distinctly an Owl feature that saves the buying public thousands of dollars every year. These sales are strictly on the square, not limited to small-priced articles but applies to the most expensive.

Here's a tip to smokers not included in the list of bargains in the big ad: In the cigar department the Puritano, an extra fine 10-cent seller, 2 for 11 cents. You can get a whole box of 50 for $2.75.

'IS ABSENTEEISM A SIGN OF DECAY?' THEME OF COLE

A sermon of power was that preached Sunday morning at Central Christian church by the pastor, Clifford A. Cole. His subject was a most singnificant one, "Is Absenteeism a Sign of Decay?" He hit straight from the shoulder yet throughout, his statements were kindly and loving. He referred to the Apostolic church and the steadfastness of its members, which he accounted for by their habit of assembling together on every first day of the week, sometimes oftener, to commemorate the cruel sufferings and death of their Lord and Master by partaking of the communion.

Staying away from this weekly observance is bound to bring about indifference and too often it results in complete loss of faith, he declared.

"It is not the presence of our Lord that we commemorate, but a remembrance of Him in His absence. We do not partake of Him, but we think of what He did and how He suffered for us.

"Too much are we as a people getting away from the truth that the communion, not a sermon, is the object of our coming together around the table each Lord's Day morning to commune with our Savior who gave His life for us. Not the most brilliant speaker or the finest music can take the place of this observance. Those who miss it once or twice find it easy to do so again and again. Absenteeism from the Lord's table is surely a sign of decay of faith in the individual. It leads to a permanent absence from the house of God.

"If one member is justified in absenting himself from the services of the house of God, are not all? Then what becomes of the church? Let us all ponder this and ask ourselves that old question: 'What kind of a church would this be, if every member was just like me?'"

At the evening service which showed a marked increase in attendance, a series of 50 colored slides picturing the life of Paul, the first great missionary, were shown, as an introduction to the series of Sunday evening sermons on the "Founders of the Church."

ENGLAND HONORS CALIFORNIA CHEMIST

Upon Professor Gilbert N. Lewis, Dean of the University of California College of Chemistry, the honoring degree of Doctor of Science has been conferred by Liverpool University, according to information just received by President Campbell. This tribute was paid Doctor Lewis in connection with the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science held last month in London.

At the meeting of the association, Professor Lewis is reported to have addressed a very large audience of chemists and physicists upon the Studies of the Quantum Theory as Applied to the Fundamental Problems of Physics and Chemistry. He emphasized the view that whatever might be the metaphysical implications of the quantum theory, there could be no doubt that it corresponded better with experimental observation of nature than the existing classical theories. The latter regarded the processes of nature as being continuous, to be interpreted by an infinitesimal calculus, but the quantum theory went back to the older and simpler methods of counting in measurable units. The ne wtheory of discontinuity had come to the front gradually but with increasing rapidity, its interest for men of science being due, in every case in hand, to the fact that the classical theories failed to correspond with experimental results which would be easily explained on the supposition that all action tok place by "quanta," i. e., by measurable jumps or by accretion of units. In chemistry the theory presented itself in the form that a molecule remained in a state of quiescence until it received certain measurable quantums of energy. Dr. Lewis said he was prepared to lay down the general principle now that every molecule, simple or complex, was stable until it was raised to a higher energy level by the input of definite quanta of energy.

Sales Tax Returns Must Be in By Oct. 31

Warning was issued yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell, to thousands of sales taxpayers in Southern California that their returns and payments of tax for September must be in his office or in the hands of his deputies in branch offices on or before October 31, to avoid penalties of 25 per cent and 5 per cent, and a specific penalty of $1,000. This class of taxpayers includes manufacturers of automobiles and parts and accessories, candy, and all other persons manufacturing taxable articles, theaters, country clubs, jewelers, manufacturers of syrups, soft drinks and carbonic acid gas, ticket brokers and telephone and telegraph companies.

"These penalties," said the collector, "are not at my option or pleasure, but are imposed by law. It is my desire to collect taxes—not penalties—and for that reason I urge all such taxpayers to make their returns and payments within the time prescribed by law. If they don't, I cannot avoid assessing penalties."

The collector also called attention to the necessity of the return and payment being in his hands before the close of business on October 31. Merely placing the remittance in the mails on or before the last day of the month will not prevent penalties.

In a ruling received from Washington yesterday it is held that the amounts paid periodically to a trustee by a company to be used for the purpose of compensating injured employees, the sums so paid being the same as the premiums insurance companies previously charged for carrying the liability insurance, do not constitute allowable deductions in an income tax return. The ruling further sets out that only claims adjudicated and paid are allowable deductions.

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

Dear Mr. Barnes: Can you tell me what is causing me to get a pronounced hook on all of my full iron shots? The ball gets up well, so that I know I am not smothering the stroke, but it almost invariably takes a sharp curves to the left. What do you suppose causes this, and how can I correct it? P. H.

Answer: Too much right hand is in all probability the answer to your trouble. By that I mean, the right hand is being snapped forward into the stroke just as the club head meets the ball, thus turning the club face too much to the left at the moment of impact.

Frequently this comes from letting the right elbok work out too free from the side at the top of the back swing. So see to it that this elbow is kept well in to the side. Another thing that will help to correct this fault is a change of grip so that the left hand is placed so that the back of it is facing toward the hole in the address, rather than further over toward the right.

The further this hand is placed over toward the right, the stronger the tendency is to let the left elbow bend down and in toward the body in hitting through, so that instead of this arm's swinging on through practically straight, as it should, guiding the club, it permits the right to whip around toward the left to sharply.

Keeping the left arm straight at the moment of impact will help strongly to correct your trouble.

RARE APPEAL IN 'THE FOG' NOW AT THE GLENDALE

Nathan Forge, born a poet and dreamer, is enveloped in the fog of harshness and brutality which threatens to crush his spirit. In another town, Madelaine Theddon is fighting her way through the fog of whispered remarks that she is a girl without a name—and finds herself the object of Gordon Ruggles' desire. But one day she is touched by one of Nathan's poems and traces him, only to find that he has sought solace in the love of a girl unworthy of him, and has married her. She returns home, broken-hearted. Later Nathan's wife proves untrue.

Nathan and Madelaine go on through the fog, searching for each other, but never knowing what they seek. After a series of thrilling adventures, however, they find themselves in Russia, during the war. And it is there the threads of their lives cross, and there ends the quest for happiness.

Such is the bare outline of "The Fog," a Metro picture which comes to the Glendale Theater today. It is one of the most appealing, thrilling and powerful stories ever screened.

Among the players are Mildred Harris, Cullen Landis, Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Louise Dresser, Marjorie Prevost, Ann May, Ralph Lewis, David Butler, Frank Currier and Edward Phillips.

ARGENTINE CONSUL IN FILM SHOWING AT THE GATEWAY

Dr. M. E. Malbran, Argentine consul to Mexico, will be seen in Marshall Neilan's Goldwyn photoplay, "The Eternal Three," which comes to the Gateway Theater today.

Dr. Malbran kindly offered his services to be photographed dining in his favorite corner on the veranda of a popular cafe in Chapultepec park—the park surrounding the president's castle.

"The Eternal Three" contains not only intimate shots of President Obregon's castle, but will reveal something of Mexico which few know; that Mexico is one of the oldest of ancient lands, its history dating back to the time of the deluge, and its immense pyramids tombs and riches promising to rival the most startling discoveries of Egypt.

Bessie Love, popular star who will be seen in "The Eternal Three," has a business all her own—separate and distinct from being an actress. She has originated a process for decorating perfume bottles, and her finished product is called the "Love Bottle."

WARLIKE FILIPINOS PREFER FIGHTING

[By Associated Press]

MANILA, Oct. 24.—The Ifugaos, one of the most warlike peoples of the mountain provinces, are becoming more friendly to the lowland settlers in that province, and have started trading with them, it is reported here.

Deputy Governor Dosser, who has been working for months toward establishing peace between the mountain people and the lowland settlers, succeeded in getting more than 150 Ifugaos to take rice, vegetables and baskets to Duluog, a town on the boundary between Ifuago and the province of Isabela. These were exchanged with the lowlands for pigs and chickens. As a result of this venture several markets have been established and trading between the erstwhile warlike peoples is becoming the order of the day.

conveyance for one of the scenes in "Her Reputation," to be shown at the T., D. & L. Theater today. He learned to his sorrow that, like the dodo, the species is fast becoming extinct. An old farmer in Tulare county was finally found who had a seventy-five-year-old specimen. It was rented for the use of May McAvoy and her nurse in several scenes of the picture. The buggy, upsetting its occupants into a flooded river, precipitates a series of exciting events which lead to a startling climax.

Mourey, Wounded Head of Shattuck Jewel Robbery Band, in Paris Hospital

Gabriel Alphonse Mourey, alias Henri Boilat, is recovering from wounds sustained in a desperate revolver battle with four policemen near Paris and the authorities are arranging to bring him to New York for trial. He is accused of being the leader of a band who locked A. R. Shattuck, his wife and seven servants in an old wine cellar of the Shattuck home in New York City and fled with jewels valued at $84,000. Mourey, employed as a butler by the Shattucks, disappeared after the robbery and was run down by the French police after a search that led to many parts of Europe.

CIRCUS OPENED LAST NIGHT IN BIG TENT

There Was Large Crowd Acts Were Good and Everyone Happy

The big things are on.

The Sciot circus, which is being held on Brand just south of Doran beneath the "big top," is now among "those present." Two shows were given last night, the first at 7 o'clock and the second at 9. At each of these performances were six rattling good acts, every one of which was worth the price of admission.

Every feature was there—from the tight-rope walker to the Spanish dancer; from the trained monkey to the clever pony. All of the acts were turned off in grand style. There was nothing in the way of hesitation. Each performer knew his part and each went through his bit with wonderful cleverness and skill. Some of the features were screams; others were extremely high class. It is understood that several of the acts are vaudeville features of the highest type, and that up to very recently some of them have been on the Orpheum and other vaudeville circuits.

At the tent last night there was plenty to drink. This should interest a goodly number of Glendale citizens. Fortunately, however, everything was soft, one of the kickiest fluids being the pink lemonade. The wheel of fortune where the winner got a baby doll a guaranteed ham or a box of bacon, also, was there, as were a number of very interesting side shows.

The circus part of the entertainment is located at the north end of the tent, this taking up about one-half of the big tent. There is one ring, this being sufficiently large for the performers to do their tricks in.

Hundreds of people flocked through the door of the big tent last night. As predicted by the Glendale Press, the first night of the show was altogether encouraging. The attendance was all that could possibly have been expected and at each performance the show was very well attended. The prospects are that the remaining nights of the show will be equally as well attended.

One of the features of last night's performance was the playing of the Sciot band. Just a few weeks ago the organization of this band was started. Now there are 52 members in the organization. Last night this band did itself proud. The various selections were followed by cheers, the crowd being generous in its applause.

Two shows will be given each evening. The first will start at 7 o'clock, while the second will begin promptly at 9. Different programs will be given at each performance, so that those who attend the first show may stay on for the second with the assurance that no act will be repeated. Each show will consist of six acts, between each two of which special stunts will be put on by the 20 trained clowns.

Following are the acts as they will be given at each of the performances:

First show:

Act 1—This will be a military drill by six ponies who are liberty broke. It is truly a remarkable act which shows to the extreme degrees that ponies may be trained. This is an act that has for the past several months been a feature of the Orpheum and other vaudeville circuits.

Act 2—In this act Senora Gonzales will do her celebrated wire stunts. This performer comes direct from Mexico City. She is well known in show circles through Mexico and the United States.

Act 3—In this act two dogs and one monkey will do all kinds of acrobatic stunts and clever tricks with platforms, hoops and the like.

Act 4—This will be a trapeze act by Senora Juanita Lopes. In this act this lady does all kinds of dare devil stunts, such as hanging by her toes while flying in midair and the like. The is a hair-raising performance and one well worth the price of admission.

Act 5—This is known as the January act, being some clever features by a pony and a donkey. This is one of the funniest acts on the bill and wherever shown is given a wonderful hand.

Act 6—Frank Curan, recently of the Barnum & Bailey circus, will do jumping stunts in this act. Frank is a one-legged fellow, who was injured several years ago while jumping from an airplane, this accident necessitating the amputation of one of his legs. In this act Frank jumps over tables, chairs, boxes and the like, the whole being a truly wonderful act.

Second show:

Second show:

Act 1—Frank Curan is the curtain raiser of the second show. In this act he does a number of aerial stunts on the flying rings that take a person's breath away. All of these stunts were created by Frank himself and he carries them through in a skillful manner.

Act 2—This is an act by two trained spider monkeys. So far as is known this is the only act of its kind performed by spider monkeys in the world. These monkeys go through their stunts entirely without the aid of the trainer. One monkey goes through a series of trapeze stunts while the other does some tight wire tricks.

Act 3—In this act Senora Gonzales does some very attractive Spanish dancing. A stage will be placed in the center of the ring so that all those attending can get a good view of the performer.

Act 4—Comical Ed will do some juggling stunts in this act that would do credit to the best comedians in the land. He has an act that was created by himself and is all his own. For months Ed has been appearing on some of the largest stages in the country.

Act 5—This is one of the feature acts of the entire show. In it 10 trained dogs appear. Four of these animals are featured. There is the clown and the summersault dog, the athletic dog and the acrobat. This is one of the finest dog acts in the country at this time.

Act 6—"Iron Jaw" is the name that has been given to this act. In it Senora Lopez hangs and swings while hanging by her teeth.

SCIOTS' MATINEE FOR BENEFIT FIRE VICTIMS' FUND

A special matinee for the benefit of the fire victims' fund will be given in the "big top"—the Sciots' circus— on Saturday afternoon. This is the only afternoon a matinee will be given. The boys in charge of the show felt that they wanted to do something to show their appreciation of the wonderful sacrifice made by the two victims of the recent forest fire in Glendale. In no better way, they decided, could this appreciation be shown than in assisting in the swelling of the fund that is being raised for the surviving relatives of the two unfortunate boys.

At this matinee the regular show will be given, and the Sciots are expecting the tent to be crowded to the doors. Some special features, it is understood, are being arranged for the children.

ENCOURAGES BOY EMIGRANTS

MELBOURNE, Oct. 24.—The new government is about to adopt a policy of taking over private estates under compulsion, if necessary, to facilitate the establishment of temporary training farms for emigrants. New arrivals will be allotted holdings of this land, and the immigration of boys to Australia is to be particularly encouraged.

The Four Contenders for Circus Queen

Choce for Queen to Be Announced at 10 p. m.

Special ballot boxes will be arranged in the tent for the reception of the ballots in the contest for queen, which will be sold at a nominal charge. Promptly at 10 o'clock Saturday night, which will be the closing night of the circus, an especially appointed committee will make quick work of counting the votes. Immediately after the check on the votes, the winner in the contest will be announced and crowned, and all persons in the big tent will be required to do her homage as queen of the Sciots' circus and Glendale's favorite daughter.

Interest Is High in Popularity Contest

Interest runs high in the Sciots' popularity contest, which will be conducted as a part of the mammoth circus that will be given by that order beginning tonight and continuing the remainder of the week.

In this contest there are four beautiful Glendale girls—and every one of them is out to win the blue ribbon. They include Miss Corinne Orff, member of the Glendale Press staff, Miss Margaret Longley, Miss Gladys Kattelman and Miss Olive Middleton.

Each has her staunch partisans, and the contest, though a friendly one, will be full of strenuosity all the way through.

SCIOTS'BAND IS NEW INSTITUTION BUT A COMER

Less Than Two Months Old But Already a Veteran

Oh, you Sciots' band!

Have you heard that Sciot band? Have you seen Frank Witherell do the big leader act? Do you know what it means to have a thrill travel along your spine when that aggregation of expert musicians does the "profundo basso" stunt? If you haven't, you've a real, sure-enough experience awaiting you.

Something like six weeks ago the "boys" of the Glendale Sciots devised the idea of forming a band. At that time it was only an idea, however, but it was one that was destined to grow. G. O. Russell of 212 South Brand, was put in charge of the band. It was up to him to pull these music fellows together and if possible, to oversee the "putting over" of this organization of musicians.

To Frank Witherell was given the "honor" of whipping the band into shape; or, in other words, convert a crowd of willing musicians into a band. Frank has turned the trick. During the past few weeks two practices have been held each week in I. O. O. F. hall, and at this writing Frank has his band in such a shape that it can make some really good music. Its offerings are good to hear. The great big demonstration of the band was at the opening night of the Sciots' circus. From that time on this organization of musicians will be heard frequently in Glendale. It will be used to boost its organization and its city—always "shouting" the wonders of this order and this community.

The Sciot band now numbers 52 members. Of these Frank Witherell is director, and J. J. Burke is assistant director; G. O. Russell is manager, and E. W. Kingsley and C. T. Palladine are assistant managers.

The members of this musical organization are:

Cornets: G. A. Turney, G. O. Russell, J. J. Burke, D. H. Dahlinger, C. L. Peck, M. J. Callahan, H. G. Andrews, G. Toms.

Clarinets: C. Donaldson, H. Rearden, J. M. Eyerick, E. R. Naudain, G. W. Pierce, F. W. Moe, W. M. Conroy, V. Corder, G. Curtis, R. Kuykendall, R. L. Graul, R. L. Crossland, R. Hunt.

Trombones: L. H. Hubbard, S. Francis, R. Webster, G. D. Evans, C. C. Bell, B. W. Worden, W. H. Fletcher, W. S. Murphy.

French horns: C. T. Palladine, J. S. Johansen, N. L. Clark, R. F. Arnold.

Saxophones: E. Floyd, A. L. Holzer, A. C. Currie, L. M. Brown, G. H. Conroy, E. H. Gray.

Flute and piccolo: E. S. Maxwell, C. F. Reddick.

Baritones: C. J. Becker, W. Jolley.

Bass: E. W. Kingsley, J. N. Grindell, E. D. Marshall, B. Potter.

Bassoons: G. H. Bringolf, G. Ferritti.

Oboe: R. Fockler.

Drums: R. W. Biddlecom, J. B. Steninger.

GLENDALE WANTS CONVENTION OF 1924

Will Pull Hard For the Honor at San Diego Next Month

"The Sciots' convention for Glendale in 1924."

This is the slogan that will be carried to the Supreme Pyramid convention which will be held at San Diego by the five delegates who will attend that affair from this city. This convention will occur on November 15, 16 and 17.

The five Glendale delegates will include Ralph E. Murdy; W. E. Moody and Richard J. Kinley, who were regularly appointed, and Toparch Harry M. Bennett and Past Toparch Arthur H. Dibbern, special delegates.

This outfit of five will go to the convention in the southern city with the distinct understanding that they must bring the 1924 convention back with them. They are a bunch of live wires—every fellow being a booster, and if they do not bring next year's convention home on their shoulder it will be because they cannot yell loud enough.

These boys will make the journey to the southern city on November 14, so that they may be on hand bright and early the morning of the fifteenth, when the convention opens.

If they are successful in bringing next year's convention to Glendale it will mean that this city will have to get busy right off the reel in the building of her hotels, for some 5,000 people will surely attend that convention.

"Here's hopin'."

Swedish Railways May Unite in 12 Groups

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 24.—A proposal to organize the private railroads of Sweden, about 100 in number(into 12 large groups, has been submitted to the minister of communications by the chairman of a committee that has been studying this question for five years.

The private lines in Sweden carry 40 percent of the traffic; the remainder goes over the state lines. It is believed that consolidation will result in improved service.

DO YOU 'MEMBER THE BIG MEETING LAST SEPTEMBER?

One of the biggest events in the Sciot year was the mammoth ceremonial, held September 8, at which 150 candidates were initiated into the Glendale order of Sciots. This was held in the Glendale Press hall, 333 North Brand boulevard.

Many of the local Sciots, looking back of this event, remember it very vividly, and number it among the most impressive times in their lives.

The early part of the evening was taken up by a parade which started at the Glendale Press building and went down Brand boulevard to Colorado and back to the Press office. In the Glendale Press auditorium, an enjoyable entertainment was given, after which "all hands" adjourned to the room on the main floor where a regular old-time banquet was served. This was served at about midnight and it was during the early hours of the morning that the old and new Sciots wended their ways homeward.

Additions have been made to the Sciot order from time to time until now the organization numbers about 300 members.

O, SCIOTS!

"Who's the stranger, mother dear,
Look! he knows us—ain't he queer?"
"Hush, my son, don't talk so wild,
He's your father, dearest child."
"He's my father? No such thing,
Father died away last spring."
"Father didn't die—keep quiet,
Father went and joined the SCIOTS;
Lodge is working night and day,
That's what's keeping him away;
Dad's an Officer, you see,
Has no time for family;
Kiss him, he won't bite you child,
All these SCIOT guys look wild."

JUST STICK

It's easy to cry
—That you're beaten—and die;
It's easy to crawfish and crawl;
But to scrap and fight
—When hope's out of sight,
Why, that's the BEST game of them all!
And though you come out
—of each grueling bout
All broken and beaten and scarred,
Just have ONE more try,
—It's easy to die,
It's the keep-on-living that's hard.

HOW THE SCIOTS CAME INTO BEING

Order Started in San Francisco in Year 1905

In 1905 a number of Master Masons met in the Mission Masonic Temple in the city of San Francisco for the purpose of forming a club where Masons could be organized for the purpose of furthering Masonic teachings and applying in a practical way the precepts of the great fraternity.

As a result of this meeting the organiaztion of boosters was formed, a constitution and by-laws adopted, which vested the government of the organization in the Council of Twelve. The head was called Kadih al Malik, which honor was conferred on Charles H. S. Pratt, with whom the plan originated.

The idea took immediate hold among Masons. It was recognized that such an organization filled a long-felt want. It fostered the true spirit of our fraternity, caused men to forget the worries, troubles and cares of life and made them look on the bright side of things, giving them new hope and incidentally, helped them in their business affairs. Their slogan was "Boost One Another."

In January, 1910, the name of the organization was changed to Sciots. At that time it was evident that provision would have to be made to spread the order wherever Masonry is known.

The government of the organization was changed from a Committee of Twelve to a Supreme Pyramid with power to establish pyramids wherever a sufficient number of Master Masons could be found to support such an organization. The following preamble was adopted:

"To bind closer the ties of the Masonic brotherhood, to promote the well-being and elevate the condition of its members, to widen the field and increase the harvest of brotherly love, to cultivate the social and fraternal field and increase the happiness of those who are or may become members of it, to provide for its government and lay the foundation of a permanent, fraternal and social organization and teach the divine lesson of true Americanism."

At this time the official designation of "Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots" was adopted. The government of the order is vested in the Supreme Pyramid, which meets annually in November. During the interim, the Pharaoh is in absolute authority, and his ruling prevails as the law of the order until modified or set aside by the supreme body.

The supreme pyramid is composed of the original members of the Boosters and the elected representatives from each pyramid. The organization has been continued from that time until at the present there are in California pyramids with a combined membership of about 30,000.

ITS PURPOSES

The purpose of the Order of Sciots is, first, to impress upon its members the fact that they must not neglect their Masonic duties; their neighbor's assistance and cooperation; the strong grip of a friend to help them over the rough places in life is worth more than a beautiful requiem and unctious sermon and an elaborate pyramid over their remains when dead.

ITS RITUAL

The ritualistic work is founded upon an event that occurred about 1124 B. C. In the Agean sea was an island called by the Greeks "Chios" and by the Romans "Scio." The inhabitants were Greeks and the Grecian characteristics and form of government were most pronounced. This was evidenced by a deep patriotism and local attachment for their homes. They were in spirit democratic, there being no nobility among them. In a neighboring island was an association among the inhabitants formed for the purpose of worshiping one god. These associations were feudal in character, and while the members were independent they were subject to a central authority that concerned religious worship. This association was called a "League of Neighbors." This league was used merely for religious ceremonies, but the inhabitants of Chios applied its principles to their every-day business. Owing to the rugged topography of their island home in journeying to and fro, when an obstacle was encountered it was their custom to build a pyramid with their bodies and in succession gradually surmount the obstacle.

Under the organization of a "League of Neighbors," the Sciots prospered. Their vineyards and orchards, cultivated through mutual helpfulness and assistance, yielded the richest wines and the finest fruits. So widespread had their fame become that even the Pharaoh in Egypt heard of them. He sent his Mohar, or tablet bearer, to the toparch, or chief of the city, with a royal order that some of the famous wines and fruits of Scio be secured for the royal banquets and ceremonials at Memphis. The toparch summoned his Mazai, and bade him take unto himself guides and retainers and go forth to find this wonderful island, and, if found, to secure a full mead of the wondrous wines and fruits, demanded by the royal edict. The Mazai found the island of Scio and formed a close friendship with the Sciots; and when the wind next blew from the north, in galleys richly laden with wines and fruits, the Mazai, accompanied by the Sciots, departed on his journey to the toparch's palace.

An ill wind sprung up and lashed the sea into fury. They landed on an island to seek shelter from the storm, and were surrounded by bandits whose leader was known as "the Chief of the Me."

In the Cretan Labyrinth was confined the monster monatour, who had the head of a bull and the body of a man, and was said to have been the offspring of Pasphae and the bull sent to Monis by Poseidon, and where he devoured the youths and maidens sent him every nine years as a tribute.

Minos, who, it is said, afterward died and became a judge or torture in Hades, was the king and law-giver of the island, and before him the Sciots were conducted by the chief of the Me for sentence. Minos decreed that nine of the Sciots should be offered up as a tribute to Minotaur. The toparch, in the meantime, becoming alarmed at the non-arrival of the Mazai with the Sciots, ordered the captain of the guard to take unto himself a guard of Memphites and search for the Mazai and the Sciots, and, if found, to give them safe conduct to the palace.

The captain of the guard and his Memphites arrived on the island in due time, whereupon the chief of the Me, together with his henchmen and Libyans, fled to the mountains, and the Sciots were rescued. They were conducted in safety to the toparch's palance. And we learn that they received a most pleasing welcome at the River of Joy.

Afterwards, within the gates of the city, they were welcomed with great acclaim. On the palace of the toparch there was written "Welcome."

The Sciots and the Egyptians became great friends, and it came to pass that at each third moon the Sciots would journey to the palace of the toparch; and lo, it is related that they were received at the River of Joy as before and given a royal welcome, and on their way, hither and thither, on the journey and among the pyramids, there was much feasting and merry-making.

Further the legend sayeth not.

ELIGIBLES

The constitution of the supreme pyramid provides that any Master Mason, of white parentage, is eligible for membership, provided he has been a Master Mason in good standing for at least six months prior to making application.

THE SCIOT CREED

Your neighbor's assistance and co-operation in your business affairs, the strong grip of a friend to help you over the rough places in life, a kind word spoken in your behalf or your defense, a watchful care over you in your journey through life, and a full measure of innocent, wholesome amusement, is worth many times more to you while living than the most beautiful requiem, the most unctous sermon or the most elaborate pyramid over your remains when you are dead.

SCIOTS' AIMS, OBJECTS PURPOSES

Following are the aims, objects and purposes of the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots:

First — To unite all Master Masons in a closer bond of friendship, fellowship and cooperation.

Second—To teach a Sciot that his most important duty as a citizen is to stand for the enforcement of law and order; to participate actively in national, state and municipal affairs, by the exercise of the right of franchise. That the pyramid is an open forum for the discussion of questions of general interest, under the strict prohibition that there must be no partisan or personal discussions and that the name of the order must not be used for any political or religious purposes, or to further any anti-religious propaganda.

Third—To furnish an opportunity for those temporarily dependent upon us, to help themselves, by the establishment of employment bureaus, relief associations and other practical methods.

Fourth—To teach a Sciot that in his duty to the Masonic fraternity generally his duty to the individual in a practical way must not be overlooked.

Fifth—To teach Sciots to remember the great principle that all Sciots are equal and that there must be no distinction among them on account of personal, political, social or financial standing.

Sixth—To endeavor to teach the great lesson of mutual aid and assistance at all times, to boost one another and all movements having for their ultimate aim the greatest good to the greatest number.

Seventh—To foster clean, bright, wholesome entertainment, free from all that debases or leads to excess.

Eighth—To impress upon a Sciot that membership in the Masonic fraternity means something more than proficiency in the ritual, perfunctory attendance, or the payment of dues. Their Masonic duty must not be neglected but must be translated into service.

Ninth—To teach that your neighbors' assistance and cooperation in your business affairs; the strong grip of a friend to help you over the rough places in life; a kind word spoken in your behalf or in your defense; a watchful care over you in your journey through life, is worth more than the most beautiful requiem, the most glowing eulogy, or an elaborate monument when you are dead.

THINKS AWAY BACK TWO WHOLE MONTHS

Lives Over in Fond Memory That Monte Vista Picnic

Think back—away, way back to August 11.

Doesn't that date bring fond recollections?

Doesn't it bring back to you one of the livest and best times you ever enjoyed in your life.

It was on that date that about 200 Sciot members and their families, with twinkles in their eyes and a song in their hearts, gathered at Monte Vista park, one of the most beautiful parks in this part of the country lying up near the town of La Crescenta. Every fellow and his sweetheart who gathered at that picnic went there to have a good time, and, to take the words of one of those who were present:

"That outing was sure a knockout!"

Bright and early, as they say, all over Glendale on the morning of that day the members of the Glendale order of Sciots were up and stirring around. The odor of frying bacon soon permeated the air of the city. In a short time this was blown away by the breezes from the Pacific and before you knew it dozens of machines, bearing Glendale Sciots and their families were seen hitting along the various streets of this city. They were all headed in one direction—up the Verdugo road. Like a caravan they wended their way up to and through Montrose, La Crescenta, Tujunga and on to the park.

Those who attended this little gathering, the first of its kind to be held by the local Sciots, will remember the oceans of good will that were spread around that day. Everyone wore that unwashable smile and the finest kind of a time was experienced.

The program started, you will remember, at about 10 o'clock in the morning with musical selections by the band—that newly organized Sciots musical aggregation. Then Sciot Kaeumoku Lewis led the community singing.

And then came the feed—oh, you eats! "Some feed!" Everybody yelled, and what those fellows did to that chow was really good to see. That meal—chow—repast—feed—lunch—dinner consisted of—oh, what's the use trying to describe what they had on that table. Suffice it to say that there was nothing lacking. It was a typical Sciot feed.

After lunch, teams headed by Sciots Kiefer and Carlock played baseball until dark. Both teams won. The scores came so fast and furious that the tally keeper was unable to keep up. When the combined scores of the two teams had reached an even two hundred he fainted away. He came to a week later.

There were races and everything else that goes with them.

It was late when the bunch returned to Glendale.

Weeks ago that picnic was held.

But it doesn't do any harm to hark back to the "good old days," does it?

CONVENTION NOTES

Sciot Charles Means, chairman of transportation committee, Los Angeles Railroad company, Los Angeles.

Chairman of housing committee, Harold Miller, 2122 Thirtieth street, San Diego.

Fresno drill team and band have reserved 60 rooms in the U. S. Grant hotel.

Redding Pyramid No. 27 is going after the 1924 convention with a bang, and it seems that it is only fair that they should win the coveted prize.

Eureka Pyramid will send down its crack drill team to the San Diego convention.

Rules for drill team decisions will be sent to the scribe of each pyramid before October 10, the committee on this particular subject not having completed their plans at the present time.

Sciot Billy Hon of Los Angeles Pyramid and its chief of the Me puts on weekly shows for No. 30. He is also the impressario of the pyramids in the southern portion of the state and enjoys great popularity, not only from his geniality, but for the class of shows that he produces.

"O Sciots, Tell Him Now"

If with pleasure you are viewing
any work a Sciot's doing,
If you like him, or you love him,
tell him now.
Don't withhold your approbation
till the parson makes oration,
And he lies with snowy lilies
o'er his brow;
For no matter how you shout it,
he won't really care about it;
He won't know how many tear
drops you have shed;
If you think some praise is due him, now is the time to give it to him,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.
More than fame and more than money is the comment kind and sunny,
And it gives to life a savor, and it makes you stronger, braver,
And it gives you heart and
spirit to the end;
If he earns your praise, bestow it;
if you like him, let him know it;
Let the words of true encouragement be said;
Do not wait till life is over and
he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

ANNUAL SESSION OF SUPREME PYRAMID

Will Be Held at San Diego November 16, 17 and 18, 1923

San Diego Sciots have been busy, in a quiet way, for several months in preparation for the thirteenth annual meeting of the Supreme Pyramid, Ancient Order of Sciots, to be held in the southern city on November 15, 16 and 17. Added interest will be attached to this year's convention, in that it will be the first national meeting of the order.

General chairmanship of the convention is in the hands of Sciot Tom Sexton, one of the leading spirits in San Diego Pyramid No. 32. Subcommittees working under Sexton's direction have made much progress, and there is every indication that San Diego Sciots will make good their ambition of staging the biggest and best convention of the order yet held.

Many Sciots know San Diego for the charming city it is. For many others, however, it will be the first trip to that city, and for their benefit the following picture has been drawn.

Imagine yourself transported suddenly to a great park surrounded by a beautiful city with a half hour's leisure for sightseeing. At the moment you are gazing eastward, in wonderment and admiration, across 50 miles of green-clad slopes and terraces rising gently into rows of hills ranged like footstools along the base of kingly peaks and intervening ridges, with outlines softened by a veil of gray-blue haze.

Reluctantnly you turn from this scene to look southward, and spread before you in this direction is an equally fascinating picture framed by a large range of mountains flung across the outer rim of your vision from the east and disappearing to the westward in ocean mists.

As you face to the west and north the panorama is completed by a marine view that holds you as if spellbound, for the setting sun is painting an indescribably gorgeous scene on the slowly falling curtain of evening; it is a sunset such as you once saw in a tropical land, perhaps, and will never forget.

From a stranger who happens along you learn that you are in San Diego, California, a city of dreams materialized into magnificent realities. Your vantage point may be any one of a half-dozen eminences in the city's 1400-acre playground, one of the three largest municipal parks in America. The mountains you saw to the east are the Incopahs ("the mountain people"), so named in honor of the Indian tribes whose habitat they still are.

When you turned south you looked across the international boundary, 16 miles from San Diego, and the mountains you saw are 70 miles distant, although they appear on clear days to be no more than half that far.

You linger in the park still further to admire the grandeur of the waning day as presented to the westward in land and seascape, against the waters of the Pacific, whose greenish blue tint deepens steadily with the approach of dusk, you make out a group of small power boats hovering lazily on the edge of a long stretch of kelp beds. These are units of a numerous fleet that supplies sea products to San Diego's fishing industry.

Farther out you see a line of rakish gray warships in regular formation steaming for port—the light cavalry of the sea returning to the destroyer base in the harbor after a day's offshore practice. Overhead, numbers of planes from the North Island air station that stands out in the foreground, just across the harbor, are cruising about, singly and in pairs and squadrons—some of them seemingly threading their way through intricate channels among blazing sunset clouds.

Across 15 miles of ocean, Coronado Islands, grotesque and solitary, stand out boldly against sea and sky in the southwestern sweep of your vision. Frequently you have observed them during your stay in the park, but have passed them with casual glances to give first attention to the transient and spectacular elements of the scene.

The outlines of the central island of the group suggest, rather vaguely it may seem to you, the recumbent human form with arms folded across the breast, so the aborigines following his traditional system of spontaneous nomenclature, reverently christened it Corpus Christi—the body of Christ.

Westward, four miles from where you stand, Point Loma, bold, defiant, impressive, projects itself into the sea from north to south, presenting an invulnerable, rock-faced wall to the pounding surf. Under the lee of this formidable promontory, the southernmost tip of which interlocks across the harbor channel with the northern end of North Island, shipping may enter or leave port safely in all kinds of weather.

On the southernmost end of the headland is a military reservation with modern defense works and practically adjoining this are the institutions and beautiful grounds of the International Brotherhood and Theosophical society. The gleaming glass dome of the organization's main building is visible many miles at sea.

Along the crest of this ridge also are some of the residential show places of the bay district.

Across the harbor, southwest from your point of observation, is Coronado, a city of palatial homes surrounder by specious gardens bordering broad, paved streets.

San Diego is indeed a city of superlatives and distinctions. For instance, government statistics show that it has the most equable climate of any city in the country.

It is both the beginning and the end of the United States—the first American port north of the Panama canal and the terminus of two transcontinental railroad lines.

Here it was that California's civilization was born, 1769, when the first of the chains of missions that still figure prominently in the romantic history of the state, was built and dedicated.

SCIOTS' FAME HAS SPREAD FAR AND WIDE

An Illinois Paper Gives Order Humorous Boost

Although the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots is comparatively young, its fame has spread far and wide, as is shown by the recent article appearing in the Kablegram, which is printed in Mount Morris, Ill.:

"Did you ever hear of the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots? We thought not, for it is still young and confines its noise to the lodge rooms of about 40 Masonic lodges of California and Nevada.

"To give you a flying introduction to him, we will say that a Sciot is a cross between a Shriner and a Rotarian. The local organization is called the pyramid. The prerequisite to membership is to be a Master Mason.

"When the Kablegram man heard about them he at once sought further information, for the new organization interests us as much as new bugs interest a bug professor. We got in touch with what we believe to be one of the livest Sciots in existence, (the name of this party is being withheld, but let's call him Boosting Pete), who is a scribe of a certain Southern California pyramid. Anyhow, he is well educated in good fellowship and phoolishness, a perfectly splendid combination.

"'The Sciot,' writes Brother Pete, 'takes an interest in a brother's business as well as his social affairs. He believes that the lilies should be passed out while the fellow is able to smell 'em, rather than in placing them in his hand just before patting him on the chest with a shovel.' You see, it's kinda practical.

"'Do you recall a newspaper report that an earthquake was felt in California a few weeks ago?' asks Pete. 'That wasn't an earthquake. We have an occasional fire up in the northern part of the state, but no earthquakes. The disturbances registered here on that occasion was the result of two Sciot meetings held at different points at the same time. They were instituting a new pyramid near Los Angeles, and we were holding another meeting in different part of Southern California. We have to be careful. Four meetings going on simultaneously along the coast would wreck it. Gosh, ain't that ruff?

"Brother Pete is so pesky interesting that we will let him tell the rest of the story. Listen in:

"'The largest luncheon held in our town is held on Fridays, and they are Sciots. We use the largest luncheon hall available and those Sciots who do not get there at noon sharp must either stand around and watch 200 men eat or grab off something somewhere and come back later for the program.

"'We are rated as a civic organization and take an active part in events along with the Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, etc.

"'The whole thing was started several years ago in San Francisco and was then called the 'Boosters' club.' There are about 40 pyramids in California and one in Nevada. We started on the thirteenth month (January), Friday, the thirteenth, and there were 13 of us. That was a year ago. At the conclusion of our next ceremonial, we will have over 1,000 members, including most of the leading lights of the community.

"'The supreme pyramid convention will be held in San Diego next November and 5,000 visitors are expected—and some party.

"'If you would like to say something about us in the Kablegram, it would enlighten many. One night recently one of the local papers received a telegram from London, asking, "Who and what are the Sciots?" So you tell 'em.'"

JOHN D. SPRECKELS IS SAN DIEGO SCIOT

Sciot John D. Spreckels, "builder of San Diego," was one of 200 candidates initiated into San Diego Pyramid No. 32 at the Spreckels theatre some time ago.

After the program and initiation ceremonies were concluded, Mr. Spreckels was asked to address his brother Sciots. He said in part:

"I am no talker. I try to do things, not talk about them. There are plenty of talkers. The woods are full of them. I like the men who do things and that is why I am glad to become a Sciot. I have a way of keeping an eye on men and I have been watching you Sciots for some time; and I like you. I like your spirit, your pep, your team play. You are out to get things done, not merely to talk about them. In short, you know that a Mason is first of all a builder. So that's why I want to be a Sciot and with the Sciots stand."

HAITI STAMPS OUT RABIES

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 23.—When the American Sanitary Service found itself confronted with an epidemic of rabies in Port-au-Prince, it went to the heart of the matter by going after the dogs, the numberless dogs, that infest the city streets, and remind world-wide travelers of Constantinople, so they tell us.

The citizens were given due notice, and then a liberal supply of poisoned meat was distributed throughout the city. The resulting mortality met the most sanguine expectations, and the menace of rabies came to an end.

JOB WANTED

From the Southern California Sciot:

If any reader happens to like this bum writing (the majority don't), get in touch with Glendale's Scribe, Sciot "Dick" Kinley. Of all the bunk publicity writers he is the bunkest and may need a job if his note don't improve. And then on top of that, he has been placed in charge of the publicity for the circus. How he gets by is a conundrum. Why, even Glendale's leading newspaper, the Glendale Press, has promised a special editon to be called the Sciots' Circus Extra. Yes—We have some co-operation in Glendale. "DICK" KINLEY, Scribe.

Gilhuly & Russell is the only 100 per cent Sciot real estate firm in Glendale. This concern is composed of S. S. Gilhuly, G. O. Russell, O. H. Russell and C. L. Peck, the latter was recently connected with the Frank Meline company of Los Angeles. Mr. Gilhuly, who has been a Sciot for some time, having been a member of Los Angeles Pyramid No. 30 prior to the organization of the Glendale Pyramid, was very active in the forming of the pyramid here.

COLORED GLASSWARE FOR DINING TABLE

Colored glassware is always attractive for the dining table and more particularly so when it is Italian glass of a deep blue. Candle sticks, goblets, sherbet glasses and graceful swans for salted nuts and bonbons all come in this fascinating ware.

FIVE COMMITTEES OE SCIOTS NOW IN OPERATION

Each Has Real Chairman Who Looks After Duties Closely

An insight into the aims and ambitions of the Sciot organization may be secured from a consideration of its activities. These are shown to a great extent by the active committees that are now in operation within the order.

The motto of the Sciots is "Boost One Another," and that is just what the standing committees aim to do.

Following are the committees now in operation:

Relief committee — Samuel A. Warren, chairman. The purpose of this committee is to care for local Sciots. Committeemen in various parts of the city report to the chairman immediately any member of the order within their jurisdiction who needs assistance. Upon receiving this report, the chairmen at once order the necessary steps taken for the relief of that suffering brother. Since the forming of this committee floral remembrances have been sent to many sick members. One visiting member from Fresno who landed in Glendale sick with asthma was put under a physician's care and placed in a good sanitarium, the local pyramid guaranteeing the payment of the costs of his care.

This committee in conjunction with a new committee which is to be formed will take care of the distributing of charity funds especially at Christmas time, when a large number of needy families will be fed by Sciots. The bills contracted by these committees will be paid for by the local pyramid.

"Don't wait for men to get down, but help them while they are up. If they are down, pick them up," is the theory upon which this committee is working.

Employment committee—Harry M. Bennett, chairman. The purpose of this committee is to see that none of the men of the order are compelled to go without employment. If any of the members are in need of work this committee endeavors to find work for them. At each meeting this employment question is taken up and jobs passed around. Whenever a member of the order is in need of an employe he notifies the committee and the proper kind of a man is found to fill the need.

Ladies' night—E. V. Jellison, chairman. During October the Glendale pyramid started off the new year by voting that the second Friday of each month should be ladies' night. On these occasions the time will be devoted to entertainments, dancing, shows of various kinds, in fact, anything that would prove of amusement and benefit to the wives of the members as well as to the members themselves. It is the purpose of this committee to provide a good time for the families of the members. The first "ladies' night" will be held on Friday, November 9. Elaborate plans are being made for this event, which promises to be one of the "high lights" of the year.

Entertainment—Sciot Ralph E. Murdy, chairman. This committee takes care of all the entertainment in conjunction with the ceremonials, regular meeting or special meetings for the Sciots, their families and their friends.

Social and Outings—A. W. Gregg, chairman. The purpose of this committee is to arrange in advance special features for the pyramid, these consisting of picnics, outdoor socials and outings, automobile trips, special shows at the local theatres, and all special dances. The first event arranged by this committee was the picnic which was held in August in Monta Vista park. It is the aim of the committee to arrange some special feature for each month, these, if the organization so chooses, to be open to invited guests.

NEW MAGAZINE OF SCIOTS MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

A new exponent of Sciotry in Southern California recently made its bow to the public in the following salutatory:

To prove, we hope, a tower of strength to Sciotry throughout the southland and a real influence in welding together, in the spirit of cooperation, the now really great membership of the order, the Southern California Sciot with this issue makes its bow.

Arriving on the scene at a time when the various pyramids are installing officers and preparing for the arduous labors of a new Sciot year, the Southern California Sciot extends its heartiest congratulations to the new officers, not only of Los Angeles Pyramid No. 30 but also to the men who through the coming year will shape the destinies of the splendid pyramids at Santa Barbara, Ventura, Glendale, San Bernardino, Fullerton, Santa Ana, Imperial Valley and San Diego, and we trust that their term of office shall see the fulfillment of our dream of a pyramid in every city in the state.

That this little mazagine may be the means, in some small measure at least, of bringing about our hope for a greater Sciotry and also that it may be instrumental in fostering the fine spirit of good fellowship that has been expressed upon so many occasions and in so many ways is the ardent wish of the management.

Sciotry is definite and specific and outlines for all of its members a course of action which is not only practical but of utmost importance to all within our portals; therefore, brethren, let the coming of the Southern California Sciot not only mark the advent of a new publication but let us labor to the end that a new era, a time of strong and abiding friendship may be opened to us all.

A. Y. TULLY,
Toparch.

GUILD HONORED FOR WORK DONE

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Churches, schools and community centers are called upon to honor the achievements of the Homemakers' National Guild on Homemakers' day, October 31, in a letter sent to the thousands of members by Mrs. T. Vernette Morse, founder and executive secretary at national headquarters here. Special observance programs are urged for the day.

The fifth anniversary of the Junior Homemaker schools also will be celebrated at the time.

"When homemaking is recognized as a learned profession, the schools will be proud to accept it as a foundamental principle in the development of all education," the letter said. "Homemakers make the schools and the teachings of those schools can never rise higher than their source. All homemakers intuitively conduct their home on the fundamental principles of life and growth. If that were not true there would be nothing left of human life in a few years.

"The educational and social life of the Junior Homemakers is conducted on the plan that there is no dividing line between home and public school activities. In order to produce intelligence, their activities must be interwoven. This plan holds parents equally responsible with the teachers in the educational development of child life. Exhibitions and programs arranged for juniors and seniors will be helpful in promoting these principles."

FRIENDSHIP

O SCIOTS!
Let us use the gauge of righteousness
To measure out the plan
We shall draw upon the trestle board of life;
With the mightly square of virtue
Keep the angles sharp and true
On the structures that shall dot this vale of strife.
Spread the good cement of friendship
With our trowel tried and true;
That the world that's looking on may ever say
That our ideals are not empty
And our words come from the heart
When we voice the mystic letters B. O. A.

The Growing of Walnuts

in the Pacific-Southwest

WALNUT trees are thought to have been brought to California by the Mission Fathers, but plantings were not extensive until after 1849—the year of the gold rush.

This industry has grown rapidly. The Pacific-Southwest is now producing 97% of this nation's crop. Last year's production was valued at $11,500,000. The present bearing acreage is 56,810, confined largely to three counties—Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura. There are at present 13,770 non-bearing acres. Plantings continue.

The industry's cooperative marketing organization, the California Walnut Growers' Association, handled four-fifths of last year's crop.

Through the cooperative features of its inter-community system and the local management and understanding in each of the localities served, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank has been able to render an unusually broad and constructive service to the agricultural producers of the Pacific-Southwest.

VAST INCREASE IN CAPITAL STOCK OF CORPORATIONS

Capital stock of Southern California corporations reported for federal capital stock tax from July 1 to October 1 registered the unprecedented increase of $378,826,000 over the corresponding period of 1922, according to a survey completed yesterday by the collector of internal revenue.

For the three months period a capital stock tax of $1,362,356 was assessed, representing capital stock of a fair value as of June 30, of the staggering sum of $1,416,756,000, which was reported by corporations for taxation compared to $1,037,930,000 for the same period of 1922. This sets up a gain in the value for taxation, compared with $1,037,- of capital stock reported for July, August and September of this year, of $378,826,000.

That new corporations by the hundreds are being organized and the value of the stock of established corporations increasing, is shown by the fact that for the three months period of 1923 there were 10880 corporations filing capital stock returns as against 5989 for the corresponding months of 1922, a gain of 4981 corporations filing returns, or 81 per cent.

The collector pointed out that the captial stock tax receipts for the entire fiscal year of 1922 represented capital stock of a value of $1,415,000,000 and for 1922 of $1,106,000,000 as compared with capital stock of a value of $1,416,756,000 reported for taxation during but three months of the present fiscal year.

The total collection from caiptal stock tax for the last fiscal year was $1,442,013. Basing his estimate on the 81 per cent increase in the number of corporations filing returns during the first three months of the 1923 fiscal year, and the increase of $378,826,000 in the value of capital stock reported for assessment, Collector Goodcell predicted that capital stock tax receipts for 1923 would establish a new record for the Southern California district.

The federal tax on capital stock is $1 for each $1000 of fair value exceeding $5000.

QUAKE SHAKES ALPINE PEAK

GENEVA, Oct. 23.—Mount Gallo, a peak 7,000 feet high, in the lower Engadine, has been decapitated by an earthquake.

When the Zurich observatory registered the Japan earthquake shock it also reported slight shocks in the Canton of Grisons, in Switzerland. Alpinists from Maloja who recently climbed Mount Gallo found that its top, a huge granite block, undermined by deep crevices, had fallen into a ravine several thousand feet below.

An English barrister, after a particularly trying day, came home with his nerves on edge, and at once sought refuge in his own study, well away from the noises of the household machinery. He sat down by his fire and was gradually getting calmed down when the cat, which had been sitting there, too, got up slowly and walked across the room. The master turned on her and said indignantly: "Now, what are you stamping around here for?"

BRIEF HISTORY OF PYRAMID NO. 39

Glendale Pyramid No. 39, Ancient Order of Sciots, was instituted at the Odd Fellows' hall, 201-A West Broadway on June 8, 1923, at which time 104 members were taken into the order. Arthur Dibbern, the first toparch, was in charge of this session. The "send off" that was given this organization spelled success and from the moment of its inception it grew with remarkable rapidity.

The first social event of the order was a smoker, which was given to all Master Masons of the San Fernando valley. This was held at Odd Fellows' hall in July, and at this event there were several hundred present, and the finest kind of a time was enjoyed.

Another big event held by this organization was the mammoth picnic at Monta Vista park, this being held some time during last August. There were 200 Sciots and their families present, and the day was a riot of fun.

From the moment this organization was started, applications for membership have been rapidly received and the membership has grown from the original 104 to 300. The members feel that by the first of January, 1924, the membership roll will contain at least 500 names. This will result if the present rate of enrollment continues, which is confidentally expected. Applications for membership are coming in from prominent Masons located in various parts of the San Fernando valley.

To take care of those who desire admittance special short form obligations are held at least twice a month and at practically every one of these sessions, new members are admitted.

The meetings of the Sciots of Glendale are held every Friday. One of the slogans at each of these meetings, which might, in fact, be termed the principal slogan of the organization, is "When do we eat?"

The chef, Paul Maxwell, knows his business, the members of the lodge say, and with the "unlucky half dozen," whom he choses at each meeting, he puts up "some eats" that would do credit to the Ambassador.

Women who tell everything they hear, manage to hear a lot.

JOHNNY MEYERS IS WINNER BY A DECISION

Defeats Phil Moss in Four Rounds; Ward Beats Flynn

By FRANCIS W. READ

Johnny Meyers, Glendale fire department heavyweight, defeated Phil Moss of the Columbia Athletic club by a decision in their four-round scheduled battle at the Glendale Athletic club bout last night. The fight was rather slow, although at times both men showed signs of real action. Meyers had the better of the argument all the way through.

They started out sparring around the ring, and did little or nothing the first round except dance around and clinch. The second round was about the same, although they put a little more action into the works. In the third round Johnny began to get in his heavy attack. He had outboxed Moss earlier in the bout, and was now beginning to outfight him. It was not until the fourth round, however, that he was able to muster up his real stuff. Then he let loose, but was unable to floor his opponent. They were, sparring around when the final gong sounded.

Batling Ward received the decision over Packy Flinn in the best bout of the evening. Last week the two fought to a draw. When they first entered the ring it appeared that Flynn had the slight advantage. Ward, however, by steady fighting and collected headwork was able to outbox him and win the decision.

Three knockouts featured the evening's performance. Racer knocked out Walker in the second round of their battle, after he had floored him several times. Only the bell saved Walker from taking the count in the first round. A hard punch to the solar plexus did the work.

Jack Carr, local High school boy, knocked out Flores in less than one round. Carr had the advantage at every stage of the game, and after a few seconds had Flores groggy. Jack put up one of the prettiest battles of his young ring career last night.

It took Rose two rounds to knock out Kelly in their bout. Young Jess and Cyclone Jim fought to a draw in the initial battle of the evening.

During the course of the performance the two participants in the main event of next week were introduced. John Hackenschmidt, local wrestler, who grappled Bull Montana to a draw here recently, needed no introduction to the Glendale fans. He will meet Joe Polk, champion of the American Expeditionary Force next Tuesday evening. Polk won the A. E. F. championship in Paris in 1919. He hails from the east, but is now making his home in Hollywood. Sometime ago he states that he attempted to get a match with Hack in Santa Barbara, but failed, so that now he is glad of a chance to meet him.

Sammy Walsh, one of the classiest featherweights on the coast, will be one of the contestants in a bout in the near future. He has twice fought for the featherweight title and is one of the best fighters that Glendale fans will have a chance to see for some time.

TROJANS TOAST THE CONQUERING HUSKIE ELEVEN

For the following little ditty, sung by the U. S. C. football team after its recent defeat at the hands of the University of Washington Huskies, we are indebted to a sport writer on a Los Angeles daily.

OH, MR. WILSON! OH, MR. ZIEL!

(Sung by U. S. C. after last Saturday's game)

Oh, Mr. Wilson, oh, Mr. Wilson,
You're the Huskies' big king pin on gaining ground;
Halfway down the field you tear,
'Nuf to scare the Golden Bear,
And to drive the Trojans from the Puget Sound.
Oh, Mr. Ziel, oh, Mr. Ziel,
You're a menace and a danger that is real;
You can pass and buck and punt,
Do 'most any football stunt.

LONG BEACH GOES AFTER A COAST LEAGUE TEAM

Desires to Become First Class Baseball City "Muy Pronto"

Long Beach has not abandoned its hopes of eventually breaking into Pacific Coast League as a baseball city. Plans for getting a Class AA club there were virtually laid yesterday at a meeting of the town's prominent business men called together by Ross Abdill, one of Long Beach's most able promoters.

Since the town has passed the 100,000 mark in population it has been desirous of obtaining a team in organized baseball, but, thus far, has not been able to achieve her desires.

At the session yesterday the business men of the town, including bankers and realtors, virtually agreed to finance the project of putting the ocean city in the limelight by bringing either one of the major league clubs to Southern California to train. In addition, they went on record as promising to furnish the capital to construct a ball park and grandstand second to none on the Pacific coast. They have a location, 600x382 feet already selected, on which they plan erecting a ball park that will be a credit to the city of Long Beach.

Sunday baseball has been prohibited in Long Beach, but City Manager Windham, intimated at the gathering yesterday that he did not think there would be any difficulty on that score if arrangements could be made to bring a major league club to Long Beach.

PRESENT COACH WITH BIRTHDAY CIGARS, WIN GAME

Coach Harry Trotter, the mentor of the greatest freshman squad the Southern Branch has ever had, was pleasantly surprised Saturday, when, just before the game with Santa Ana Junior College, Captain Charley Hastings, in behalf of the Frosh squad, presented him with a box of cigars as a birthday gift.

Coach Trotter would not divulge his age, but the guesses of the team members ranged from 25 to 50. To make it safe, he was given fifty cigars. He stated that he did not know which was the better gift, the cigars or the game.

SPORT-O-GRAMS

By FRANCIS WILKERSON READ

The recent defeat of Papyrus, the English derby winner, at the hands of Zev, the American colt, at the Belmont Park track, again brings up the question of whether any international or even intersectional contest can be fair unless staged on some neutral grounds where both participants will have to undergo the same difficulties. This question has been brought up every time the foreign entry in any event is defeated. There is surely enough grounds in such allegations to make some remedy worth while.

Papyrus left England some weeks before the great international race. He came to this country on the Aquitania and was given the best of everything while en route. When he landed after his journey across the Atlantic, he was immediately put through the paces, in order that by the time he should meet Zev he would be in first-class condition. But the race came and Papyrus was defeated by six lengths. The long trip and changed conditions had told on the British champion. Consequently, he lost the race.

Anyone familiar with intersectional athletics in the United States will testify that the same thing is true in that line also. Let us consider football, taking the New Year's day affair as a concrete example. Each year the great east vs. west classic is held at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena. For several years the University of California has been the representative of the west, last year the Trojans played. From all indications the Bears should again play for the west this year. Different college teams, some of them coming from as far as the Atlantic seaboard, have upheld the honor of the east. The western teams have never had to travel a distance of more than 500 miles or so. They have not been forced to change violently their climatic conditions nor any of their environment. The eastern teams, on the contrary, have had to cross the continent in some instances, to leave a cold climate and come to what we are pleased to term "Sunny California." They must undergo a complete change of environment and all conditions and factors that influence a football team. To be sure, they bring their water in most instances, but they cannot bring their own climate, neither can they recover in a few days from the effects of a long transcontinental rail journey. These things they must put up with when they accept the offer to play.

The result of such conditions in the New Year's day games have meant in nearly every instance victory for the western team. In horse races and every other form of sport where long journeys are necessary on the part of one of the entrants, the home team or entrant is nearly always the victor.

That such a condition is not to the best interest of organized sports can easily be seen. So-called champions of these international and intersectional events are not always the best in the field. Conditions have made it possible for them to win.

There is but one remedy in a case of this sort. Take both contestants to some neutral place and there stage the contest. Under such circumstances they would both be forced to endure the same conditions and be subjected to the same handicaps. Then there would be fair competition; neither entrant would have the advantage. Take Zev and Papyrus to South America to race. The story might be different and again it might not, but it would remove any element of doubt that enters into the results of the race last Saturday.

In the big football game, where it is an institution of a particular locality, there is a greater difficulty. It seems as though in such a case as the Tournament of Roses game that so long as teams as close to home as Berkeley represent the west, while far-away institutions like Penn State, Ohio or Annapolis represent the east, the difficulty will remain.

TY COBB IS THE GREATEST PLAYER IN ALL BASEBALL

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Ty Cobb, fiery pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has added new glory to his all-time batting record, a mark almost lost sight of in the closing battles of the season and the smoke of the world's series confict. With the end of the 1923 campaign, Cobb ended his eighteenth consecutive season above the .300 swatting class, and came into possession of the all-time record which he had shared for a season with Hans Wagner, famous old shortstop of the Pittsburg Pirates.

Wagner set the mark at 17 years.

Another record which the Detroit manager pried loose from the former Pirate shortage was that of making the largest number of hits. Wagner in his major league career accumulated 3430 safe drives, while Cobb's 188 made in the 1923 season gave him a total of 3454.

ZEV IS NOW SURE TO RUN AGAINST MY OWN NOV. 3

[By Associated Press]

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 24.—Zev, the conquerer of the English Derby winner, Papyrus, and My Own, Rear-Admiral Grayson's crack 3-year-old, will positively appear in the Great Championship stake, to be run at Latonia, November 3, a telegram received by Latonia racing officials from Col. Matt J. Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey club, today stated.

The Championship closed with 76 nominations, included in which are the greatest of the 3-year-olds on the American turf. In Memoriam, owned by Carl Wiedemann of Newport, Ky., who has shown good form, has been especially prepared for the event, and most likely will be a starter. Mr. Widemann is credited with having announced that he would bet a large amount of money that his horse could defeat either of the eastern cracks. Whether the appearance of Zev and My Own will frighten owners and cause withdrawals of eligibles for the race is not yet apparent.

U. S. C. GRIDDERS ARRIVE IN OLD HOME TOWN

Trojans Back for Brief Stay; Play Stanford on Saturday

The Trojans, a sadder and much wiser football team, returned yesterday from Seattle, where the proteges of Elmer Henderson dropped a 22 to 0 game to mighty Washington. The homecoming, which was featured by the turnout of practically the entire U. S. C. student body, marks the last chapter of the Washington incident, at least, for twelve months, and the Trojans are now engaged in the very serious business of getting ready to take on Mr. Andrew Kerr's massive Cardinal machine.

It seems that the U. S. C. team was taken completely by surprise up in the far northwest. Everyone expected that the Trojans would win the game, but that it would be a great fight. And that's just the feeling the folks had here at home. But the Seattle contingent had been laying low for the Methodists. Most of the papers were saying all matter of sweet things about the Trojans before the battle—but with a purpose in mind. Then, when Cot Rice heaved the ball far over Otto Anderson's head early in the game, the Huskies got just the chance they wanted and were off like a house afire.

Coach Henderson will make a few shifts in his line-up preparatory to taking on Stanford at Palo Alto Saturday. Fat Adams will be at center, while Rice rests on the bench for a period. The big fellow didn't play any too well against the Huskies and will probably go better after a little thought on the matter. Otto Anderson will also be on the sidelines, with Gene Dorsey doing the punting. Du Puy is slated for Honey Earle's place at guard.

Dentistry is becoming specialized. Some dentists won't pull teeth any more. An English specialist who wanted to get away from his sign of the golden tooth took down that gilded molar and installed in its stead a neat little plate lettered:

"Bridge Expert."

A few days later the golden tooth was again swaying in the breeze.

"Too many dames came in looking for auction lessons," explained the dentist briefly.

CUBS TO TANGLE WITH QUAKERS SATURDAY

Branch Eleven Meets Whittier in Its First Conference Game

The Southern Branch Varsity opens its Conference season next Saturday with Whittier on Moore field. From past scores Whittier should walk off with the game with ease.

From past performances the Branch should keep the result a mystery until the finis of the game with the likelihood of coming out on top.

So far this season the Poets have cleaned up the surrounding territory with the teams which they have met. The U. S. S. Arizona squad was the first eleven to bite the dust beneath a 58 to 0 score. The sailors were completely outclassed, and the decisive victory made the Purple and Gray squad stand out as a probable contender for the conference championship. In the opening game of the local S. C. C., Caltek, which had made such a good showing against U. S. C., was beaten by the score of 6 to 0. So much for the scores.

The Poets are strong on the offense but without the presence of Suggett, All-American half, the scoring department is in no way better than that of the Branch. Johns at quarter and Ferguson at left half are veterans and good hard hitting gentlemen, but they had a hard time making a first down against the Caltek line. In fact it was only through following the ball and scoring on a fumble that they were able to beat the Engineers. With Suggett playing Saturday, however, his line plunges and tearing end runs will give the local forward wall the hardest workout of the season. If Suggett can be stopped, the Blue and Gold wins.

RUNNERS AT CUB INSTITUTION ARE ALL READY TO GO

With the annual conference cross country run but two months off Coach Guy Harris of the Southern Branch runners, will open the practice season with a rally in the men's gym this afternoon at 4 o'clock. As only two regulars from last year's squad are back it means that at least three positions are open on the Varsity while the whole Freshman team will have to be selected from new men. The run is scheduled to come off in conjunction with the annual Oxy-A. A. U. Relay Carnival over the four-mile Occidental course.

Men who made the team will be awarded a Circle C minor sport letter, and the Freshmen will receive their numerals. All of these men who turn out for practice five nights per week will have the same consideration as men in other sports and be excused from gym.

SEMI-MONTHLY CROP, LIVE STOCK REPORT OF STATE

Conditions were generally favorably to unharvested crops during the period October 1 to 15. Rainfall occured in the northern part of the state on the 5th, gradually extending southward reaching south of the Tehachapi two days later. The precipitation varied in different localities from .20 to .80 inches. Clear weather generally followed and slight damage if any resulted to beans and rice. The principal effect seemed to be in delaying harvesting and threshing operations a few days. No loss to the prune crop is reported. Raisins suffered slightly, more particularly in the delay to drying and causing extra labor in stacking and unstacking trays. Juice grapes seem to have been most affected and a slight lowering in quality is reported. The car shortage has slower up grape shipments to some extent. According to the Market News Service total shipments up to and including October 14 amounted to 31,495 cars as against 29,731 cars on same date last year. Present reports point toward a small percentage of the grape crop being left on the vines unless the car shortage continues and the weather conditions are unfavorable.

Rainfall in the north coastal counites and other sections in northern California is bringing along the new crop of grass very nicely and stockmen are looking forward to good pasture conditions. Other sections of the state report pasture conditions as only "fair" to "good," largely dependent upon the effect of the recent showers. No change is indicated in the condition of the different classes of livestock; marketings being about as usual with prices steady and plenty of low grade stuff for sale.

There was sufficient rainfall in the northern part of the state and extending well down into the Sacramento valley for fall plowing and as a result some seeding operations have been started. Cotton picking is progressing favorably. Ginnings to September 25 amounted to 4 038 bales as compared with 1,060 bales to same date last year. Weather conditions are reported favorable for completing the lima bean harvest in southern California. The production of lima beans this year is estimated to be 972,000 sacks harvested from about 100,000 acres as against 1,275,000 sacks harvested from 125,000 acres in 1922. A forecast of production of "beans other than limas" indicates a crop of 2,716,000 bushels as against 2,653,000 bushels last year. The area planted to "beans other than limas" is estimated at about 199,000 acres—the same as in 1922.

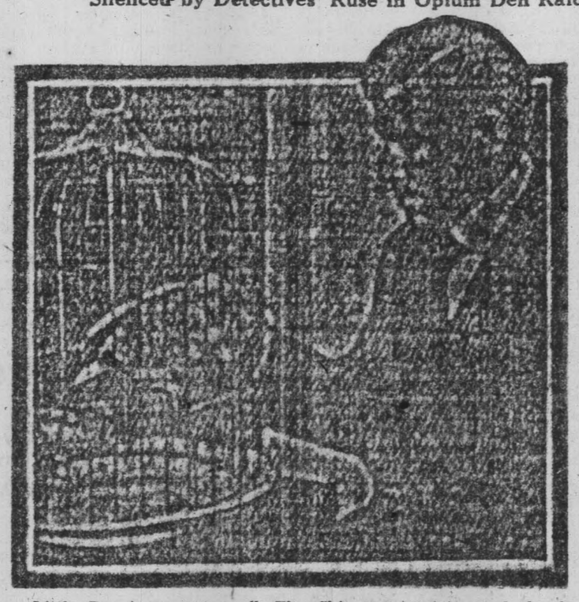
This Parrot Lookout's "Cheese It, the Cops!" Silenced by Detectives' Ruse in Opium Den Raid



Little Boy is an apt pupil. The Chinese proprietor and the frequenters of an opium den in New York city felt perfectly safe when Little Boy was acting as lookout. Detectives of the narcotic squad knew about Little Boy's warning cry of "Cheese it, the cops!" and approached him with cracker tidbits and "Polly, want a cracker?" Little Boy listened to his tempters and while he was nibbling at a cracker the detectives slipped into the opium den and arrested all hands. Detective Charles Foy is shown here with Little Boy at police headquarters, following the raid.

SOME TAXI DRIVERS LIABLE TO $1000 FINE

Penalties of $1000 will be assessed against owners of automobiles that are for hire or which carry passengers, as a result of a drive started yesterday by field deputies in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

Under the law each commercial automobile must carry either in the car or on the person of the driver an identification card issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau showing that a stamp has been issued and the car registered. The stamp must be posted in the office of the owner of the car.

Failure to carry this identification card in the automobile calls for a penalty of $1000. Investigation by field deputies shows that in many cases where a man owns and operates two automobiles that he has registered and obtained a stamp and identification card for only one car. The card is carried in one car and the stamp in the other one. When the driver of the car carrying the stamp is questioned he exhibits the stamp and explains that he has left his card at home.

Rigid investigation of these evasions of tax is being made and in all cases where drivers of for-hire of passenger automobiles fail to produce identification cards the penalty of $1000 will be imposed, revenue officials declared.
